GERMANY'S REPLY TO AMERICAN NOTE HAS BEEN PRESENTED TO GERARD: ON WAY TO WASHINGTON

Note Defers Direct Answer to Questions Raised by Our President.

AS TO THE LUSITANIA

Is Willing to Pay When in the Wrong — Refer Doubtful Case to The Hague.

Will Not Answer Demands, Pending More Talk.

Berlin, via London, May 29. — The German reply to the American note, sent after the sinking of the Lusitania, was signed by Herr Von Jagow, the foreign minister, at 11 o'clock last night, and delivered to Ambassador Gerard this morning for transmission to Washington.

The note expresses Germany's regret for injuries sustained by Americans as a result of submarine and aeroplane attacks, and offers compensation in cases in which Germany is found to be in the wrong.

Defers Direct Answer.

As indicated previously in these dispatches, the note defers a direct answer to the questions raised by President Wilson, pending a further diplomatic exchange of views.

Germany desires to establish whether the Lusitania was a defenseless merchant ship, or was being used for the transportation of war munitions and soldiers, on which unsuspecting passengers were permitted to take passage to safeguard the war materials.

The American representations regarding the torpedoing of the British steamer Falaba in which an American citizen lost his life are answered with the statement that it was intended to offer ample time for the passengers and crew to leave the ship. The action of the captain in attempting to escape, however, necessitated more summary action. Even then the commander of the submarine granted ten minutes for those on board to leave the vessel and subsequently extended the time to 23 minutes before sinking the ship.

Germany expresses regrets for "the unintentional attacks" on the American steamer Cushing and the Gulflight. The Cushing was attacked by German airmen in the North sea and the Gulflight was torpedoed off Scilly islands. Germany disavows any intention to attack harmless neutral craft. She offers to pay compensation wherever she is found to be in the wrong, and to refer doubtful cases to The Hague for a decision.

Ignores Parts of Note.

The passages in the American note concerning a possible disavowal by Germany of intent to sink the Lusitania and the discontinuance of her present practices of submarine warfare, are not mentioned specifically in the reply.

The note states that pending the reply of the American government to the German assumptions of fact regarding the real character of the Lusitania and her cargo, no attempt will be made to answer the demands contained in the American communication.

The assumptions of fact are as follows:

The Lusitania was built as an auxiliary cruiser, subsidized and carried on the navy lists as such. She carried according to German information two guns mounted and concealed below decks.

British steamers sailing from New York, according to information received from passengers and other sources, repeatedly carried soldiers, artillery, war supplies and contraband to England, the Lusitania on this trip carrying specifically 5,400 cases of ammunition in addition to other war supplies and Canadian troops en route to the front.

Reference is here made to the fact that carrying explosives on passenger steamers is contrary to American law. It is intimated that the German government would be glad to receive information as to how it happened that ammunition was permitted to be shipped on the Lusitania, a vessel prowded with passengers. Strong phrases are used regarding what is considered as apparently the deliberate policy of British shipping companies to protect war shipments by embarking American passengers on the same ships.

Were There Boats Enough?

Germany contends it is impossible to settle the question whether proper opportunity was given to place the passengers and crew in safety until it is determined whether the regulations adopted after the sinking of the Titanic, regarding a proper supply of boats and water tight bulkheads, which are now a part of the American law, were observed in the case of the Lusitania.

Finally the American mediatory proposals designed to end submarine warfare, and the throttling of food supplies and other conditional contraband for Germany are recalled. The government expresses the desire to know what steps, if any, have been taken to induce Great Britain to embark on negotiations to this end, after Germany indicated her willingness to discuss a settlement on this general basis.

The delivery of the note to Ambassador Gerard was not attended by any special ceremony. A functionary of the

TORPEDOING OF NEBRASKAN ADDS GRAVE FACTOR TO THE ALREADY TENSE SITUATION

American Commission Examining Damaged Vessel Makes That Report—Comment on Reply of German Government Withheld Till Note is Received at Capitol.

Washington, May 29.—Until the official text of the German reply to the American note concerning violations of neutral rights in the war zone is received, probably tomorrow, President Wilson will reserve comment. This came from the White House tonight after press dispatches outlining the German note were received.

It is known, however, that the United States government is prepared to controvert every one of the points mentioned in the summary of the German position as published here. The press outline conforms with Ambassador Gerard's dispatches of the last few days forecasting the nature of the German reply.

Evidence of an indisputable character was gathered by the Washington government prior to sending the note on May 3 to prove that the Lusitania carried no guns, either mounted or unmounted, that she carried no explosives within the meaning of American statutes and that no British vessels have cleared from American ports for several months carrying guns of any character.

The British ambassador here is preparing to transmit assurances from the British government that the Lusitania was not armed and that she could not be carried on the naval lists as an auxiliary cruiser unless she was armed and commissioned, the latter change from a peaceful merchantman to an auxiliary cruiser being possible, according to British practice, only in home ports.

The United States, moreover, holds that the carrying of arms and ammunition and other contraband, or a few unarmed individuals who might be prospective soldiers, does not destroy the right under international law and humanity of the belligerent merchantman to be visited and searched before being destroyed and the neutral or combatant passengers transferred to a place of safety.

While the exact phraseology of the German reply is awaited with much interest, there was a feeling of pessimism in many quarters over the reported evasion of President Wilson's demands for reparation for the loss of more than 100 American lives and guarantees that submarine warfare will be so conducted in the future as to safeguard American lives and vessels.

A grave factor has been added to the situation by the finding of the American commission appointed by Ambassador Page that the American steamer Nebraskan was torpedoed without warning by a submarine. In German quarters, the claim was persistent that the vessel must have struck a mine.

Lieut. John H. Towers, naval attache and naval constructor Lewis B. McBride, of the American embassy and Consul Washington at Liverpool have reported through Ambassador Page that after a technical examination of the vessel and the testimony of the chief engineer of the Nebraskan that he saw the wake of a torpedo they had no doubt that the ship was attacked by a submarine. Inasmuch as submarines of the Allied powers have not attacked merchantmen the presumption of officials is similar to that reached after an investigation of the attack on Gulflight—that a German submarine was responsible and an inquiry to the German foreign office for its report on the case is expected to go forward within a day or two.

The preponderance of evidence showing an attack on the Nebraskan after it was believed that submarine attacks on neutral vessels would cease, at least while the negotiations were in progress admittently increased the tension in relations with Germany.

In German quarters, it was suggested that if the ship was attacked by a German submarine, the commander may have been away from his base too long to learn of the new developments and the precautions to be taken with respect to neutral ships. The fact that the Nebraskan had hauled down her flag a dark was also mentioned as a possible reason for suspecting that she was an enemy vessel although Captain Greene in his affidavit declares the name of his ship was painted on her sides in letters six feet high and that it was possible for a submarine commander to see them.

Incidentally the State Department received from Ambassador Gerard today a circular issued by the German government warning neutral vessels to keep their names illuminated at night and to bear as many distinguishing marks as possible because of the possibility of mistaken attacks.

Secretary Bryan declined to comment on the Nebraskan case. He said he had received up to a late hour tonight no word as to when the German note would be received here, but on the assumption that it had been presented to Ambassador Gerard this afternoon be estimated that it might not reach Washington until late tomorrow.

While officials did not care to comment on the German reply until they had read the text, the forecast of its contents was looked upon in well informed quarters as not difficult to answer because the American government had made a careful investigation of the facts in the case before sending its note.

Germany's contention that it is impossible to settle the question of whether proper opportunity was given the passengers to escape until it is determined whether the Lusitania was equipped with the lifeboats and appurtenances provided for in regulations adopted after the Titanic sank, was looked upon in official quarters as irrelevant because it was pointed out the

BATTLE FOR POSSESSION OF THE FORTRESS OF PRZEMYSL STILL CENTER OF INTEREST

Situation in Galicia Remains the War's Outstanding Feature—Fighting Between French and Germans Around Arras—French Claim Progress.

London, May 29.—The battle for the fortress of Przemysl, in Middle Galicia, remains the war's outstanding feature. There has been heavy fighting north of Arras, where the French continue to progress, the Germans admitting tonight their evacuation of Ablain. But this is a small affair compared with what is going on around Przemysl.

The Germans and Austrians with an enormous weight of artillery continue to fight desperately in an effort to encircle the fortress which is already reported to be under bombardment. The armies on the San, North of Przemysl have, however, apparently received a check. The Russians, after driving them back across the San near Sienlawa, have now turned their attention to forces which crossed the river north and south of Jaroslau and have been delivering furious attacks. All of these the Austrians and Germans claim to have repulsed.

Southeast of Przemysl the Teutonic allies are meeting with more successes but their progress is not so rapid as it was recently and communications to Lemberg, which were reported to have been severed remain intact.

Except for their admission of the evacuation of Ablain which they say was carried out without the knowledge of the French the Germans claim to have repulsed all attacks along the western line. As the same claim is made by the French, who also state they have made further progress, the situation does not appear much changed.

It is not expected the French will make any marked advance at one time for they are attacking strongly fortified positions which have to be taken one by one in the face of innumerable and cleverly concealed machine guns.

Outpost fighting contiues along the whole of the front of the Italo-Austrian frontier. Bucharest reports important negotiations are underway between Rumania and Bulgaria but their nature has not been disclosed.

German submarines are still busy in the waters around the British isles, the latest victims being the English steamer Ethiope, sunk Friday. Sixteen of her crew are missing.

In the southwestern theatre the Austrian war office reports that several naval airmen made a raid on Venice, dropping many bombs. An arsenal was damaged by fire and an explosion occurred in Fort Nicolo. No news of this raid has come through official Italian sources.

New progress is reported by the French war office to have been made in the sector north of Arras. The French official statement also claims to have repulsed with complete success a German counter attack on the trenches at Ablain and are now holding the entire village.

FRENCH OFFICIAL REPORT.

Claims That Additional Progress is Made in Region of Arras.

Paris, May 29.—The war office issued the following official communication today:

"In the sector to the north of Arras we have made new progress. After having repulsed with complete success the German counter attack reported this morning on our trenches at Ablain we took the offensive and captured at first the greater part and then all of the houses of Ablain which the Italian-Austrian Border, Where Fight is Going On.

The Italians have taken the offensive, so far as the news dispatches tell the story of the war between Italy and Austria. Italian parties have charged across the border near Switzerland, and if the stories from Rome are to be believed, Austrian garrisons have fled before them. On the other hand the Italians have mobilized north of Venice and in the neighborhood of Treviso and Udine, ready to march into Trieste and the Italian provinces along the Adriatic, now in the possession of Austria.

The Italians have made up their minds to take the war into Austria, rather than permit the Germans and Austrians to invade their northern provinces.

MUCH GOOD COMING FROM CONFERENCE

Between Business Men of All American Nations.

CONCLUDED LAST NIGHT

May be Many Months Before Results Are Apparent—Secretary McAdoo Will Ask President to Urge Legislation.

Washington, May 29.—The Pan-American Financial Conference closed here tonight after six days' discussion of problems which have confronted the two Americas because of the European war.

Concrete results of the meetings may not be apparent for many months, but none of the representatives of the United States or delegates of the Pan-American Republics were inclined to overlook its sentimental value and the apparent fact that through its business men of the two Western continents have come to a better understanding of each other's views. What the results of the meetings may be, so far as the United States is concerned, probably will not be apparent until Congress receives the report and suggestions of Secretary McAdoo., presiding officer of the conference.

Of first importance politically and commercially is the question of improved transportation facilities between North and South America.

The conference took no definite stand today on how transportation could be best developed and left the question of ship subsidy or government ownership where it was when the deliberations began.

Mr. McAdoo indicated, however, his purpose to make some concrete proposal to Congress, saying he expected to urge the President to press for adequate legislation. The report of the committee on transportation was adopted today without a dissenting vote.

Will Solicit Assistance.

Secretary McAdoo said he would urge upon the President the need of continuing the work of the conference. He pointed out that the delegates had no power to take affirmative action on the question of transportation, but that each country must be left to deal with the matter in its own way. The "group committees" of the conference, which have done the real work, would be replaced, he added, with permanent committees in the United States.

Frank A. Vanderlip, of the National City Bank, of New York, summarized the view of the United States representatives tonight in this statement:

"The Pan-American conference was a happy conception. It has turned out better than its very best friends could have anticipated.

"The conference has been characterized by practical business sense. The results promise to be extremely helpful in giving impetus to the movement for closer credit relations and in removing obstacles that stand in the way.

"There was one point on which every member in attendance seemed to be agreed on and that was that the greatest obstacle in the way of this trade development is a lack of transportation facilities. There were divisions of opinion as to how to meet the demand, but there was unanimous agreement that it must be met before really great results are attained."

A resolution presented by President Fahey, of the chamber of commerce of the United States, was adopted today

FRANCE DISPLAYS HER APPRECIATION

Of What United States Has Done Since War Began.

SHARP GIVEN OVATION

Four Large Albums Containing Autographed Appreciations of Authors and Poets, and Original Drawings Presented.

Paris, May 29.—What Americans have done for France during the war, was impressively acknowledged by the French government and people today in a presentation to Ambassador Sharp or four great albums containing autographed appreciations by eminent authors and poets and original drawings by artists of France. The albums will be sent by Ambassador Sharp to the Congressional Library at Washington and 500 duplicates arranged for by the French government will be presented to public libraries in the United States.

The ceremony took place in the historic amphitheatre of the University of Paris. Among notable persons present were the President and Mme. Poincare. In the presidential party were Mrs. Sharp, wife of the American ambassador, and Miss Sharp; Signora Tittoni, wife of the Italian ambassador and Mme. Iswolsky, wife of the Russian ambassador. There were grouped about Ambassador Sharp Premier Viviani, Foreign Minister Delcasse and other members of the French cabinet and the Russian and Italian ambassadors, the ministers of Belgium, Servia and many members of the French academy and institute.

Sharp's First Appearance.

The occasion was Mr. Sharp's first official appearance and he was applauded warmly by the several thousand persons assembled in the amphitheatre, three-quarters of whom are prominent in the intellectual and social life of Paris. A chorus of 100 girls sang the Star Spangled Banner as a special compliment to Ambassador Sharp. Leon Bonnat, president of the Institute of France, and Gabriel Hanotaux, representing the French academy presented the albums to the American Ambassador.

When Mr. Sharp arose to reply he was greeted with long continued applause which grew to an ovation when he referred to the warm feeling of sympathy of the United States for France and said:

"Don't let any false prophets tell you anything different."

Mr. Sharp was congratulated by President Poincare and M. Delcasse and others while the great audience arose en masse and applauded. The ceremony ended by Count Solly reciting a poem on the United States written for the occasion by Madame Lescalle. The albums which were presented to Mr. Sharp were beautifully bound in green with the flags of France and the United States in colors.

WILL EXAMINE WRECKED F-4

Before Any Effort Made to Recover Bodies of Her Crew.

Washington, May 29.—Acting Secretary Rosevelt today directed Rear Admiral Moore at Honolulu to suspend efforts to recover the bodies of the men who went down in the submarine F-4 March 25 until the vessel, now in 43 feet of water, has been brought to the surface. The Navy Department wants to examine the boat for evidence of the cause of the disaster.

FEDERAL ATTORNEY PLEADS FOR FRANK

Would Show by State's Evidence That He is Innocent

AND CONLEY IS GUILTY

As a Private Citizen of Georgia United States Attorney Presents Prison Commission with 25,000 Word Appeal.

Atlanta, May 29.—Hooper Alexander United States attorney for the northern district of Georgia, late today filed with the state prison commission a plea for a commutation of Leo M. Frank's sentence, in which he seeks to show by the testimony of the state's own witnesses that Frank did not murder Mary Phagan but that James Conley, a negro, now serving a sentence as an accessory after the crime, was the slayer.

Hugh M. Dorsey, solicitor general, who prosecuted Frank, also gave out tonight his letter to the prison commission opposing clemency for Frank, declaring "the facts and circumstances surrounding the commission of the murder do not invoke the exercise of mercy or offer inducement to temper the penalty," and further that the fact that Frank's conviction has been affirmed by both state and Federal courts "despite the indefatigable exertions of his influential friends in and out of Georgia * * * justifies my deep conviction that the ends of justice have been accomplished by the processes of law."

In a Lengthy Appeal.

Mr. Alexander explicity states in his communication, which comprises approximately 25,000 words, that he makes his apepal on Frank's behalf, not in his capacity as Federal attorney, but entirely in the capacity of a private citizen of Georgia "who does not desire to see an innocent man hanged for another's crime," his argument starts with the proposition that Conley's admission that he wrote the murder notes found beside Mary Phagan's body, raises the conclusion that, unless he can furnish a credible explanation, Conley was the slayer.

"The whole question," writes Mr. Alexander, "resolves itself into an inquiry as to the truth of Conley's story, agreeing to the proposition that the presumptions are, in the present status, in favor of its truth, I propose to show how, when and why the story was manufactured and I shall do this without referring to any testimony offered for the defense or stating any fact depending on that testimony."

In the effort to fulfill this promise Mr. Alexander presents circumstances tending to show why the police were liable to be mistaken and why the public failed at the time to perceive the importance of the discovery that Conley wrote the "murder notes." He sets forth the known facts as the equation of a mathematical problem, traces and groups the movements of the persons concerned on the day of the murder, who testified as the state witnesses, shows the evolution of Conley's stories, changes Conley made in them and the motive for each variation. He also points out alleged inconsistencies in Conley's statements and argues on the physical impossibility of material features in the negro's story. In this connection he says:

Thinks Conley Guilty.

"While Conley's account of his actions and conversations with Frank, after the murder, occupied, according to him, only 34 minutes, they could not

ACUTE INTEREST IS AROUSED OVER MEXICAN PROBLEM

Official and Diplomatic Quarters Curious as to Forthcoming Statement.

FROM THE WHITE HOUSE

Possibility of Intervention by United States is Admitted by Our Officials.

Washington, May 29.—Announcement that President Wilson would demand a settlement of the Mexican problem by the warring factions themselves within a short time and failing in that, adopt some means, not defined as yet, to bring about peace, has developed acute interest in official and diplomatic quarters as to the prospective action of the United States.

The President's appeal for funds and supplies to relieve the starving population of Mexico, the preparation at the White House of a statement to be communicated to all military leaders in Mexico next Tuesday, and arrangements of the American Red Cross for a huge relief scheme are the first steps in a policy which it became known today, President Wilson has had under consideration for some time with the object of restoring peace in Mexico.

Text is Kept Secret.

The text of the President's forthcoming statement is an official secret, but from those who advised with him prior to its preparation, it is understood Mr. Wilson will address not only the military leaders in Mexico, but the Mexican people and at the same time the people of the United States. He will review in detail the course of events in Mexico since the assassination of Madero and Suarez and the usurpation of the presidency by Huerta.

The pronouncement, it is said, will call attention to the fact that the United States government, by refusing to recognize Huerta, assisted in driving him out of power and expected from the victorious Constitutionalists the re-establishment of government in Mexico. Nearly a year has passed since Huerta was compelled to resign, but the Constitutionalists, the statement will say, have failed in the meantime to restore order, conditions growing worse daily with no faction apparently possessing the capacity to establish a government.

In view of these conditions, according to reliable information, the State Department will serve notice that the situation has grown intolerable to foreigners and the Mexican people alike, the Mexican chiefs must arrange for an early solution of the problem. Unless this is forthcoming soon, it will be indicated to the military leaders in Mexico that some other means may have to be employed to assist the Mexican people. The President does not intend to specify this government's course for the present.

Officials did not deny today that if the Mexican factions failed to compose the situation, there was a possibility of intervention by the United States. It was pointed out, however, that what might have previously been considered by some Mexicans as an aggressive intervention, has now changed on account of the famine conditions to a humanitarian expedition designed to save the Mexican people, helpless in the hands of military bands. It is even suggested in well informed quarters that one result of the food situation, if famine continues, would be a direct appeal to the United States government from large numbers of the Mexican people for intervention.

Several Weeks to Develop.

The new phases in the Washington government's policy may take several weeks to develop. For the present efforts will be made to get food to the Mexicans. The seizure by the Carranza authorities of 600 tons of corn purchased by the International Relief Committee is one of the incidents which has aggravated the situation considerably and it is expected notice will be served on the Mexican generals to permit the transportation of relief supplies or the American government may be constrained to undertake the distribution of supplies through its own agencies.

The plan of President Wilson has been evolved after many conferences with cabinet officers and others. The report of Duval West, who returned last Tuesday after an investigation in Mexico confirmed the impressions of the President that none of the factions seemed able to control the military situation.

The President is said to be hopeful that the effect of his statement will be to draw the better elements of the Mexican military factions together into some constructive [illegible] for the establishment of [illegible]ent that could be acco[illegible]n by the United States.

FIFTY MILLION TO HIS INFANT SONS

Bulk of Vanderbilt Fortune is Left in Trust for Two Boys.

WIFE WELL CARED FOR

Wife of Late Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Who Perished on the Lusitania, Given Three Million and Two Large Estates.

New York, May 29.—The bulk of the estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who perished on the Lusitania, estimated at more than $50,000,000, is left in trust under his will to infant sons by his second wife, Margaret Emerson Vanderbilt. They are Alfred G., Jr., and George. The will was filed for probate today.

William H. Vanderbilt, his son by his first wife, Elsie French Vanderbilt, who was divorced, receives a trust fund of $5,000,000; the Vanderbilt properties known as Oakland Farm, near Newport, R. I., the portraits and bust of Cornelius Vanderbilt, his grandfather, and a gold medal voted by Congress to Cornelius Vanderbilt, his great-great-grandfather, founder of the Vanderbilt fortune. This legacy is in addition to a liberal settlement which William H., received from his father during his life time. He is now 13 years old.

Mr. Vanderbilt made provision for his widow by leaving her $3,000,000 and the income of $5,000,000 in trust, together with the Vanderbilt estates in the Adirondacks and Gloucester House in London, Eng.

Relatives and friends receive bequests ranging from $1,000 to $500,000. The infant sons share in the rest. The legacies will be held in trust for them until they are 21, when each is to receive outright the accumulated income and one-fourth the principal. At the ages of 25, 30 and 35 years each son is to receive a quarter of the principal, the trusts therefore terminating when each is 35 years old.

The bulk of the Vanderbilt millions passed to Alfred G. Vanderbilt on the death of his father, Cornelius Vanderbilt, in 1899.

The will provided, however, that Alfred must wait till he was 30 before he came into any appreciable part of the fortune. Then he was to receive half. At 35 he was to receive the other half. He was 37 last October. Cornelius, the older brother, cut off in the will with only $1,000,000, received $6,000,000 more as a gift from Alfred.

Cornelius was not mentioned in the will filed today. The will is dated December 16, 1913, and was signed in New York city. The executors are Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Henry B. Anderson, Frederick M. Davis and Frederick L. Merriam.

TORPEDOING OF NEBRASKAN ADD GRAVE FACTOR TO SITUATION

torpedoing of the Lusitania without a moment's warning made it impossible to launch such life boats as the ship did carry.

From the brief outline, it was not believed that the German note went beyond the circular of May 11 which promised to express regrets and make reparation for mistaken attacks on neutral vessels.

Speculation was widespread as to the Washington government's course. It was believed the German note would be promptly answered with a statement of facts as understood by the United States and a reiteration of the demand for reparation for past events and guarantees as to the future. This prediction was based, however, on no comment from the White House but on the general trend of comment among officials familiar with President Wilson's viewpoint as expressed on previous occasions.

VESSEL IS EXAMINED

American Naval Attache and British Experts View Wrecked Ship.

Liverpool, May 30.—The American steamer Nebraskan was placed in drydock yesterday at Birkenhead, in the presence of the American naval attache, Lieut. John H. Towers, British naval officers and other experts.

The vessel showed a huge gap forward on the starboard side 25 feet long and 12 feet deep at the bottom of the ship, which at this point had been blown away. All the plates surrounding the gap were curved inward. None of the officials would say anything about the nature of the explosion.

The conference ended tonight with a banquet in the Pan-American Union building. Secretary McAdoo was host. Secretary Bryan, Mr. McAdoo, Assistant Secretary Peters, of the Treasury Department; L. S. Road Sentence For Former Law-Maker

SUPERIOR COURT OF CUMBERLAND SENTENCES J. H. JOHNSON, FARMER AND LAWYER, TO THE ROADS.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., May 29.—James H. Johnson, lawyer, farmer and former Republican member from Cumberland of the State Legislature, on appeal from recorder's court was found guilty in Superior court here today or violating the prohibition law by selling less than the legal quantity of wine, and sentenced to three months on the road which is the same sentence imposed in the recorder's court in February last.

In May, 1914, Johnson was found guilty in another case of retailing and Judge Rountree released him under a bond of $500 with the promise that he would appear in court twice a year for two years and report good behavior. Johnson failed to appear at any term of court and at the January, 1915, term a capias was issued for him and process served for this present May term. He having been called at the January term and failed, on motion of Solicitor McLean, it was adjudged that court recovered $500 on the bond and the costs of the suit. After this proceeding the solicitor moved that Johnson be disbarred and the motion was continued.

President of France Tells Alcoholic League He Never Drinks.

Paris, May 29.—President Poincare, replying today to a request made by the National Alcoholic League sent to the secretary the following letter:

"You ask me as president of the republic to follow the example of other heads of states and make an agreement to abstain from all spirituous liquors during the war. That is an engagement the President takes willingly and without difficulty and not only for the duration of the war, but ever afterwards. He never drinks alcoholic liquors."

FEDERAL ATTORNEY PLEADS FOR FRANK

have occurred within two hours. According to the testimony of the detectives it would have taken more than an hour to prepare the notes, alone, but I reduce that estimate to half an hour."

Mr. Dorsey's letter was in response to notice from the commission of the pending application. He wrote:

"The court records of the case, which doubtless will be considered by you, present the details of the crime for the commission of which Frank was convicted by the courts of this country, and illustrate the conditions and circumstances under which the crime was committed. I do not understand the application for executive clemency to set up any newly discovered evidence or other grounds not heretofore considered and finally adjudicated by the various judges of all the courts, state and Federal, which have declined to interfere with the verdict finding Frank guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan.

"This is therefore, an application for amelioration of the penalty of a crime for the commission of which the courts have finally adjudicated the applicant guilty. Indeed the application does not pray for a pardon, but asks that the applicant be punished by life imprisonment instead of the penalty imposed by the trial court.

No Case for Mercy.

"The facts and circumstances surrounding the commission of the murder of Mary Phagan does not involve the exercise of mercy or offer inducement to temper the penalty of the law to one who has been finally convicted of the crime. I do not believe that the education, opportunities and influence of the applicant or the importunities of his friends should be permitted to affect the expression of an official opinion and I confess myself unable to find in the record of this case a single ground upon which to justify the solicitor general, charged with the enforcement of the law, in asking that the decree of the courts shall be overridden by the governor, upon whom also the state constitution enjoins the sacred obligation to 'take care that the laws are faithfully executed.'

"The very fact that the conviction of the applicant by a jury of 12 citizens has been affirmed by the judges of all the courts, state and Federal, by whom the case has been reviewed, dispite the circumstances of the defendant and the unusual and indefatigable exertions of his influential friends in and out of Georgia, confirms my sincere respect for the integrity of our courts and justifies my deep conviction that in this case the ends of justice have been accomplished by the process of the law."

A letter to the prison commission from Spencer R. Atkinson, of Atlanta, former justice of the state Supreme court stated that during Frank's trial Judge Roan from the bench handed him an anonymous letter threatening Judge Roan and Frank's lawyers with death if Frank were acquitted.

"Judge Roan at that time expressed doubt as to whether it was possible to give Frank a fair trial," Mr. Atkinson wrote.

Other letters in Frank's behalf were received today from United States Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi; Congressman Gregg, of Texas, and Chipperfield, of Illinois; Governor Hanna, of North Dakota, and from Rabbi David Marx, of Atlanta, who was Frank's pastor.

Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan, tonight forwarded to the commission a letter protesting against the commutation of Frank's sentence. "In this matter I have no bitterness," she declared, "but feel that the penalty the law has imposed is not too severe."

A clemency petition signed by the editors of about 60 leading newspapers and magazines was received at Governor Slaton's office today.

NEARLY MILLION SIGNATURES

Reported to Be Attached to Petition From Chicago in Behalf of Frank.

New York, May 29.—A petition with 800,000 signatures for commutation of the death sentence of Leo M. Frank was sent tonight by the anti-death commitee, of the Woman's Peace Society, to Governor Slaton, of Georgia. Miss Elberta K. Shipley, chairman of the Leo M. Frank petition committee sent a letter to the governor recounting the work the commitee has done "in the cause of justice and humanity," and requesting the commutation of Frank's sentence.

DANIELS DECLARES AMERICA LACKS TRAINED MEN IN ARMY

In an Address Before Southbend, Ind. Press Club Last Night.

Southbend, Ind., May 29.—Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, in an address tonight at a banquet of the Southbend Press Press club, referred to the lack of trained men for war in the United States.

"I don't like to admit that there is a deficit in the military system of the United States," he said, "but if there is a deficit it is not in the equipment but in the lack of trained men for war. In the heart of the American nation is hoped that we will never again go to war, but if we do it will be necessary that we have young men with military training suc has these cadets whom I reviewed at the University of Notre Dame today."

SUNDAY SERVICES

Yes, indeed. We all know that the summer is just at hand and that we will not feel like going to church. But surely that is not the way we do about other things. We must and we do attend to our daily duties whether we feel like it or not. Suppose we ask ourselves whether we owe it to God and our own selves to go to church and seek the spiritual benefits to be had only there. Besides that our example should be good to those who watch whether we walk worthy of our high calling to glorify God in all things. What example do we set in this?

(Our friends among the pastors of city churches are again reminded that we cannot undertake to receive church announcements over the telephone. These notices are cheerfully given space when written out and sent to the office as it is desired they are to appear, but in the rush of Saturdays we cannot undertake to receive these notices over the phone.)

PLOW UP COTTON AND REPLANT GROUND IN CORN

Boll Weevils Put in Apeparance in Western Alabama Counties.

Montgomery, Ala., May 29.—Authentic reports from counties along the western tier of Alabama, say the appearance of boll weevil in the young plants have caused planters to plow under the new cotton and replant with corn. The weevil is reported in large numbers in various counties and the abandonment of acreage now planted in cotton to corn and other products will materially reduce the acreage and cotton production in this state.

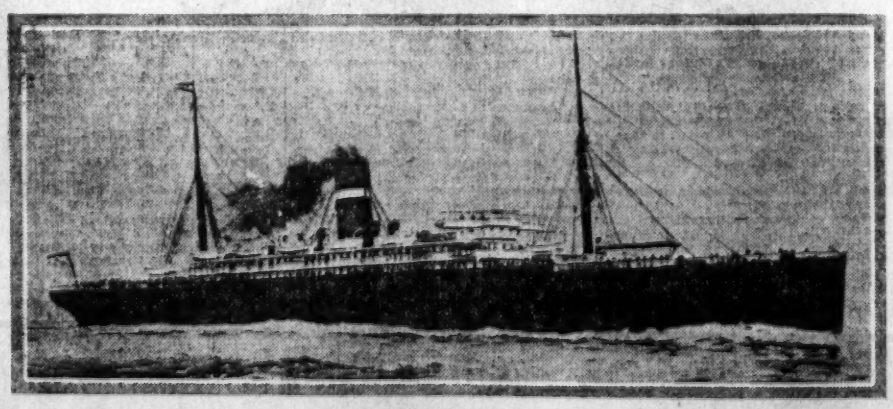
Holland Liner in Collision Off Nantucket.



The Ryndam.

The Holland-American liner, Ryndam, carrying 78 passengers and a crew of 200, was in collision with the Norwegian freighter, J. J. Cuneo, off Nantucket light, Wednesday, May 26. After wireless calls several vessels answered, among them battleships of the Atlantic fleet, which have been conducting a war game for several days.

For a time it seemed the liner would sink, and her passengers and most of the crew were transferred to the Cuneo. Later the battleship South Carolina took them aboard, and the Ryndam, under her own steam, started back to New York.

The Ryndam has a gross tonnage of 12,527 tons, is 462 feet long over all and has a 62-foot beam and a draught of 27 feet. She was built at Belfast in 1901.

The Cuneo flies the Norwegian flag and is commanded by Capt. C. Aamodt. She has a gross tonnage of 874, is 201 feet long and has a 30-foot beam.

ACUTE INTEREST IS AROUSED OVER THE MEXICAN PROBLEM

that Carranza forces under General Pablo Gonsales were moving toward Mexico City to take the capital and relieve distress there.

REPORTS OF CONDITIONS.

American Red Cross Issues Supplementary Appeal.

Washington, May 29.—Reports of hunger and suffering poured into American Red Cross headquarters today from all parts of Mexico. Supplementing its appeal for aid the Red Cross sent this telegram to all state governors:

"There are a large number of unfortunate people in Mexico facing death by starvation and the President of the United States and the American Red Cross make an appeal for money and food supplies. Gifts of corn, beans, rice and flour will be accepted at any point in the United States and forwarded by the Red Cross to Mexico to reach the people in distress.

"Money may be sent to local Red Cross treasurers or to the Red Cross headquarters in Washington. Before donated supplies are sent from any point, instructions from Washington will be furnished for routing. The most practical gateways into Mexico at the present time and under the present conditions are Vera Cruz (via Galveston) Brownsville, Laredo, Eagle Pass and El Paso, Texas, and Nogales, Ariz."

While supplies can enter Mexico through these gateways, the question of whether the Carranza or Villa forces will interfere is still bothering officials.

H. W. Catlin, who recently arrived from Vera Cruz, told Red Cross officials today that beans were being shipped from Vera Cruz to Cuba while people are starving five miles outside the Carranza capital. There were practically no food supplies to be purchased in Mexico City, he said.

GENERAL YOUNG CANNOT ATTEND RICHMOND REUNION

Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Veterans Cannot Leave Home.

Richmond, Va., May 30.—Gen. Bennett H. Young, commaneder-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans will be unable to attend the reunion. This announcement was made today in a telegram dated Cleveland, Ohio, received here by Gen. W. P. Freemand, commander of the first brigade, Virginia division, in which General Young declared his physicians had forbade his attendance. He announced that he had designated Lieutenant General George P. Harrison, of Opelika, Ala., commander-in-chief of the department of the Army of Tennessee, to preside at the convention of Veterans.

BIJOU'S Great Contest Starts Tomorrow

VERY SMALL NUMBER OF ENTRIES WILL MAKE THE WINNING OF THAT GREAT TRIP ONLY A MATTER OF A FEW DAYS' WORK.

ALL APPLICATIONS FILED TOMORROW WILL BE ACCEPTED IMMEDIATELY AND CONTESTANTS CAN START IN WITH THE FIRST.

The lady who still hesitates upon getting right into the fight to win need only be reminded that "faint heart," etc. The surprisingly small number entered in the contest will make it simply a few hours of "child's play" for some lady to win that magnificent thirty-day trip.

While the application books will remain open all of this week, those who fail to enter tomorrow will be at a disadvantage in getting a late start, while others are "making hay." Applications will be received tomorrow, only, to be passed upon immediately, and accepted without referring to the Charlotte manager.

There will be more ways than selling tickets to get votes. We're going to make it doubly easy to pile up thousands of votes after the contest has been on a week or two. Then, if you are among those who hesitated until it was too late, you'll be truly sorry.

The Wilmington lady who wins the trip will receive more honor, more attention, and have the most care-free, enjoyable and wholly delightful month that any Wilmington lady has ever had, irrespective of the cost. She will be shown in Wilmington and throughout the whole country, in moving pictures, she'll be guest of honor at numerous banquets, she'll see every sight worth seeing in the whole of America and Canada, and will have something to remember as long as she lives.

We have not yet given a list of all the many side-trips that will make up a part of this grand tour of America and Canada. In fact, they have not yet been completed. But, when you read the entire detailed list — all the many sights you will see at each stop-over point in this week's Photoplay Weekly— then you'll be sorry if you are one of those who hesitated until it was too late!

You cannot lose anything by entering, and that is the only way you can really find how easy it is to pile up the votes. No one will have an advantage over you. No one will know how many votes you have till the contest is over. No one can put in enough money at the end just to beat your number. Even if you enter and lose the trip, you will be paid a commission on every ticket you have sold. Isn't it worth taking a chance on?

Better Save Regrets---Register Tomorrow Morning!

THEN YOU'LL HAVE NOTHING TO LOSE—EVERYTHING TO GAIN!

Anyway, if you would like to take is trip, call by the Bijou office Monday morning and let us show you just how easy it will be for you. We can tell you some things that we can't put down here—because we haven't the room. If you will only take the trouble to get posted in this way, you'll enter at once.

ONLY TEN MORE WANTED---WILL YOU BE ONE?

ARMY DEFEATS THE NAVY IN GAME AT WEST POINT

West Point, N.Y., May 29—The Army defeated the Navy at baseball today 6 to 5. The cadets hit Blodgett hard in the pinches while Neyland, except for a momentary lapse in the third, when the Middies got three singles and a home run off him, kept the hits well distributed.

Today's game makes the seventh straight victory the Cadets have scored over the Middies in as many years. Neyland has won three years in succession, having beaten the Navy here in 1913 and at Annapolis last year. The series now stands Army won 11; Navy 3 A crowd of several thousand persons attended the contest, a large proportion being prominent Army and Navy and government officials.

Navy 5 13 2
Army 6 10 3
Blodgett and Hicks; Neyland and Oliphant.

LIKELY TO GET ANOTHER PRIZE.

Mr. E. C. Myers Still Leads for Heaviest Channel Bass.

Indications now are that Mr. E. C. Myers, winner of the prize offered by the New Hanover Fishing Club for the first drum of the season, will also carry off the prize offered for the largest fish caught by a member up to and including May 31st. Mr. Myers' fish was landed Monday, April 12th, and weighed an even 34 pounds.

Members of the club have landed larger bass than Mr. Myers' catch since that time, but not on the beaches between Masonboro and Mason's Inlets, to which the monthly contests of the club are confined. Therefore, unless some one beats him out before midnight Monday, Mr. Myers will win another prize.

The prize offered for the first fish caught was an order on any local tackle dealer for $5 worth of fishing tackle, and the prize for the largest bass landed before June 1st is an extension butt rest, used for spring butt rods in surf fishing.

This prize will not be awarded until June 10th, as the contest committee allows 10 days' time for filing affidavits. If by June 10th, no affidavit is filed showing that a larger fish was landed before June 1st, the prize will go to Mr. Myers.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES ARE POSTPONED; WET GROUNDS.

Mixed "Ninesum" Played by Those of League Players on the Grounds.

The weather man took a hand in City League affairs yesterday and blanked all teams concerned, successfully striking out all aspirants for higher percentage standing and washing the score board clean, leaving a sign on the gate when leaving "all games rained out."

The Giants and the W. L. I., and the Y. M. C. A. and the Boys' Brigade were slated to have battled for supremacy in yesterday's contests. The games will be played off at the end of the season. Two teams composed of players from all four of the teams that comprise the league played an exhibition game after it was learned that the regular scheduled games had been postponed.

Two exceptionally good games are expected to be staged at Sunset next Saturday and the management of the league is anxious that a large attendance of fans be present to witness them. The weather man has kindly consented not to interfere.

Capitalist Under Blockading Charge

J. ALEX. PORTER, FATHER-IN-LAW OF CANDY HUYLER, ARRESTED AT ASHEVILLE FOR BLOCKADING

Asheville, N. C., May 29.—J. Alex Porter, retired capitalist, was arrested here late yesterday by United States internal revenue officers charged with operating a "blockade" distillery. At the same time Wes. Patton, a farmer, was arrested in Haywood county, charged with having furnished Porter with materials for making whiskey.

The officers allege that the still was operated on the property of Porter at Biltmore, N. C., near here, with his knowledge and consent.

The arrests were the culmination of an investigation lasting several months. It created a sensation here. During January deputy United States marshals seized and destroyed an illicit still on Porter's property. At that time no arrests were made. The officers now claim to have unearthed evidence connecting Porter and Patton with it.

Porter and Patton both deny knowledge of the moonshining operations. Porter declares the first intimation he had that a still was located on his property was when it was seized and destroyed.

Porter is the father-in-law of Porter Huyler, wealthy New York candy manufacturer.

The sweet old story—the tale that is stammered out in honeyed words.

In order to get up in the world a fellow has to get down to business.

"What are the wild waves saying?" Nothing. The depths are dumb. The shallows murmur.

Other people than ourselves have all the pipe dreams. Now and then, however, a nihgtmare gallops up to every person's door.

We believe in "equal rights to all; special privileges to none"—the ladies excepted, so far as special privileges are concerned.

Former President Taft is urging the Republican party to take the Progressives back. That would leave Roosevelt stranded, but Taft don't care.

A great many men would take the field in the event of war, but there are few who would take it away from them if they ever had the chance.

Italy was allowed to take a lot of African territory away from Turkey a few years ago, but her former allies probably regret now that they gave her a free hand at the game.

South Carolina must have splendid credit, for that state has negotiated a $600,000 loan at 2.69 per cent. interest. Either that or South Carolina knows where money is cheap.

When we get into trouble our memories will revert to the time when it was "all quiet along the Potomac," and then fully appreciate the potent effort of President Wilson to avert trouble.

Those who do not understand Italian, understand the Italian grounds for going to war. They are grounds that she proposes to take from Austria, unless her survey of the situation will prove disappointing to her.

One's cause may be reasonable or just, but people may not be fair-minded or intelligent enough either to conceive, perceive or believe it. In that case, one has to take care of himself and do the best he can to keep from being canned.

Says the Jacksonville Times-Union: "Secretary Daniels may not be an able seaman but he has handled the navy department as well as any of his predecessors." The fact is he has done it better. His predecessors had it at sea, while Secretary Daniels has it on the water wagon out at sea.

A New York society woman has gotten her picture in the papers because she goes around with a pet monkey in her arms. She calls him Mike and lugs him around in a sort of muff made of silk and satin. She thinks Mike is famous, but, of course, da monk is not famous at all. He simply has attained notoriety because a very wealthy woman monkeys around in society with Mike. The lady is married, but the probability is that she got a husband first and got the monkey afterwards. Otherwise, if she had been seen with a monkey, every fellow would have seen her first.

An Atlanta dispatch says "the railroads want more pay for hauling the mails." We have been suspecting that all along. The mails are high-class freight in charge of government postal clerks, but the railroads carry both the clerks and the mails, and if they do not get cost out of it they will have to see Congress. Secretary Burleson hates to break the rule for getting the mails carried at the expense of the railroads, as they allege frequently and very strongly. It is simply a matter of the public's doing justice by the railroads while getting as much justice as they can out of the railroads. We rather think if private individuals had a contract to transport the railway mails they would be covinced that they would have to charge more or bust. We are glad the railroads have some other way of making money than having to depend on their mail traffic. We are also glad we do not have to be a railroad.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST BUTTER COUNTRY.

As an ocean distributor of the world's richest cattle feed, Wilmington probably ranks ahead of all other ports of the South. Seven steamships have left this port for Europe during this season with cargoes of cottonseed cake and cottonseed meal. It is concentrated here by the train load and exported chiefly to Europe's greatest dairying region—Scandinavia. Denmark is the world's greatest butter maker, and it is in Norway, Sweden and Denmark where the co-operative dairy plan originated. Those are cold countries but the dairy industry always has been a great one among the thrifty Scandinavians. However, the development of the co-operative dairy on an extensive scale has given the Scandinavian countries the lead over the world in the manufacture of butter and cheese.

Denmark is the world's greatest exporter of butter, but that is not all, for that country makes the highest grade of butter of all the countries of the world. Danish butter is famous in every continent of the known world, and it is to that country that the South's great cattle feed is exported by the thousands of tons from Wilmington. Fortunately, Denmark got in a great stock of cottonseed feed products before the war interfered with our exports. However, the war has caused tremendous loss to Denmark in its interference with that country's exportation of butter. In a lengthy article the National Georgraphic Magazine notes the misfortune which war has brought to Denmark's enormous butter industry, and that splendid and always interesting American magazine goes on to say:

"The butter of Denmark has been famous around the world and heretofore it sold everywhere that people were to be found with wealth enough to develop special tastes. The war has largely interfered with this rich industry. Denmark's butter brought the highest price in fancy markets, and it was considered superior to that of any other nation. It was used by the epicures in North and South America, South Africa, in the East and West Indies, in Egypt, India and throughout Europe. Good Danish butter sold at $1.00 a pound, in tins of one, two and three pounds. Cows in other lands seem just as sleek and the grass grows elsewhere just as succulent, but, despite these general advantages, no other country has been able to make a butter that will stand the changes of climate so well, or that tastes so crisp and sweet.

"Dairymen in Holland, Sweden and Siberia have done their utmost to produce a butter that could vie with the make of the Danes without success. The best butters of these countries are worth less than half as much. Scientific dairy operators in Germany also failed to duplicate it. Even from the milk of the cows of the United States animals favored beyond most others, it has been found impossible to produce a grade of butter that can compete with the Danish article.

"Danish butter is proof against all climate. Butter, when shipped through the hot zones, melts and remains in a liquid state as long as it is exposed to the tropic heat. Danish butter goes through this test, melts with the heat and hardens with the cold, and still retains the wholesome sweetness of its flavor, while other butter loses its sweetness and flavor under these changes.

"The Danes do not explain the superiority of their product. They assert that there is no secret in their process of butter manufacture, but, nevertheless, they are reticent about taking strangers through their great packing establishments. The Danish commission houses buy the butter which they pack from small dairies all over the country, some of their material coming from as far away as Finland. This raw butter, so they say, is taken and mixed carefully at their central packing stations, and is worked over again in order to free it from every particle of milk. The packers insist that the raw butter which they buy must be prepared only from sterilized milk and cream, and that it must be prepared in scientifically clean surroundings.

"After these packers have re-worked the butter, they color it uniformly with the juice of the ordinary garden beet, and pack it in hermetically sealed tins. They maintain that they use no preservatives or chemicals whatsoever. Nevertheless, their butter has consistently held the advantage, and until the war's outbreak, it formed the basis of one of Denmark's most thriving and widest known articles of export."

We are sure the foregoing is both interesting and informing. The truth is, the Danes know how to make butter, and that is their secret. The greater experience people have in the dairy industry the better butter they can make. Danes not only know the proper cattle feed required to make butter-fat, but they have a butter-making process that beats the world. They know where to get the richest cattle feed, too, and they get it from the South through Wilmington.

If Wilmington has the great advantage of being the port where cottonseed meal and hulls are concentrated for export, why is not Eastern North Carolina the specially adapted region for concentrating this richest of cattle feeds for a great dairy industry of her own? Why is not Eastern North Carolina specially adapted for raising and grazing and fattening beef cattle?

Why don't we take advantage of our cattle raising and dairying opportunities and retain at home at least some of the valuable cattle feed we export to far away dairy countries in Europe? We will have to get our eyes open. We surely ought to know the lines when they dangle before our eyes.

AN APPRECIATED DONATION

The handsome donation of one thousand dollars made recently by Mr. James Sprunt, of this city, to equip and prepare playgrounds at the Cornelius Harnett and the William Hooper schools, was greatly appreciated not only by the children of these schools and their parents and friends but also by the people of the entire city. It came as a generous recognition of the great good that the playgrounds can accomplish for the children, and, being wholly unsought, was the more appreciated on this account.

Mr. Sprunt modestly refrained from allowing his name to be used in connection with the gift but in response to the insistent demand of the children and their friends to know who their kind-hearted friend was, Mr. Sprunt finally consented to let it be known that he had made the contribution. It is needless to say that the money will be used profitably and wisely.

Other interested citizens have made donations of smaller amounts and it is through such generosity and public spirit that Wilmington is already ranked as one of the leading cities of North Carolina in the playground movement. As the years go, the liberal contributions made by these citizens will bear fruit a hundred-fold in physical efficiency and enlightened and noble-minded citizenship.

UNDERWOOD AND THE RAILROADS.

Some of our esteemed contemporaries are criticising Senator Underwood, of Alabama, for saying: "The railroads must be given a chance."

Of course, the senator meant that if we are not giving the railroads a chance, we must do it for the reason that they have a right to it under the constitution. He did not mean that the railroad should be given a chance to discriminate against the public or ride rough-shod over the people, but he was endeavoring to impress the public with the fact that it should not do that to the railroads any more than the railroads should be unfair to us. If the railroads do not give the people a chance and the people do not give the railroads a chance, all hands would violate the principles of constitutional government. All American citizens have equal rights under the Federal and state constitutions, and that means that the American who has his capital invested in a railroad should have an equal chance with the American who has capital invested in a newspaper or any other industry.

We would no longer have any constitutional government or equal rights in America if one class of Americans denied another class of Americans equal rights with them in the protection of their property from practical confiscation by the government or if any class should be permitted to practically confiscate the property of everybody else by discrimination or any method whatsoever.

We are all in the same boat, with equal chances guaranteed to all under the constitution and either class which denies to the other that equal chance would be tyrannical. The railroads can be tyrannical with the public and the public can be tyrannical with that class of Americans who are identified with the railroads. Each should be protected from the other if either does not give the other a "chance."

We know that is all that Senator Underwood meant and that is all each one of us should mean, if we believe in the principles of our government as expressed in the good old Democratic doctrine—"Equal rights to all; special privileges to none." No man with that conviction can possibly be unwilling to give another a chance that he is entitled to, nor will he tolerate any denial or interference with his own chance.

Every American is not only entitled to but is guaranteed his chance in our constitution, so if the railroad people deny us our chance or we deny them their chance, we have the constitution and the law to appeal to as the arbiter, holding the balances on a dead level for all. We must concede as Americans that all Americans interested in any enterprise whatsoever shall have all the privileges, rights, immunities and punishments that are due alike to every man, "born free and equal" so far as liberty and law is concerned.

American citizens ought to be fair-minded enough to recognize the rights and privileges of all and too fairminded to condemn a man whether he advocates justice for the public or justice for the railroads, or equal justice for all. No man should be looked upon as an enemy to the public because he insists on such a reasonable thing as a square deal for all the people, some of whom happen to be in the railroad business.

WHY NOT MANUFACTURE DYES IN WILMINGTON?

The war in Europe is going to make America's textile industries independent so far as dye-stuffs are considered. Why, we are going to manufacture dyes ourselves and are already doing it to the satisfaction of the cotton manufacturers.

The South's cotton mills were hard hit because the war stopped the importation of dyestuffs from Germany, and so were the textile industries of the North and Canada. We were put to our wits' end, and that is good for any people. We put our wits to work as a matter of necessity, and now we are manufacturing dyes enough to keep the cotton mills busy. Mills in North Carolina are using American dyes, and that our manufacturers find that they meet their needs, the following from the Raleigh News and Observer attests:

"Starting with a suggestion of Thomas A. Edison that in this country there is the ability and the resources to meet the lack of German dyes there were others who spoke up and declared that the United States could take care of itself in the matter of dyestuffs, and this is proving true. Dyes are now being manufactured in this country and are being found to meet the requirements without waiting for that high tariff protection which some held was the absolute need. There is now an example in North Carolina in the use of American made dyes. That example is found in the Durham Hosiery Mill, of which Julian S. Carr, Jr., is the president. That mill is said to be one of the biggest users of dyestuff in the State, and Mr. Carr has just closed a contract for eyestuffs which will settle the problem of dyes for his mill for the next 12 to 18 months. He has been experimenting with a dye from a Buffalo, N. Y., concern, and after a thorough test has decided that it meets the requirements of his business. What Mr. Carr has done other mill authorities can do."

Doubtless other Southern mill men are doing like Durham's Mr. Carr, but if they are not, that resourceful and enterprising North Carolina manufacturer is setting the pace. We won't have to depend upon any other country if we will only use our knowledge and have the necessary initiative.

Dyes ought to be manufactured in Wilmington to supply the Southern cotton mills. Else the dyestuffs should be concentrated here for distribution into the South's milling centers. Wilmington is the natural port for the center of the South's cotton mill industry and the map shows it as plainly as it can possible be shown. Wilmington is close to the dye factories of the North and it is a straight rail shoot from here to two-thirds of the South's cotton mills.

Dye manufacturing has just been started in the United States—at the North, as usual. While the industry is in its infancy, can we not induce some of the dye manufacturers to put up a factory at Wilmington? Here they can get raw materials by water and rail and ship by water and rail direct to a cotton milling section that consumes more than half the cotton manufactured in America. Either for manufacturing or distributing in bulk, Wilmington is the place.

CURRENT COMMENT.

"The players enjoy it more than the fans," observes the Wilmington Star, speaking of the various athletic games. And that's about the size of it.—Raleigh Times.

The movement against the liquor traffic now gets impetus every little while. Delegates at the National Biennial Convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, at Cleveland, voted unanimously in favor of State and National prohibition.—Raleigh News and Observer.

"It is curious how a banana peel makes it a point to get right under the feet of a man who is trying to break himself of using language that no preacher's son should hear."—Wilmington Star. The man shows his resentment for this reprehensible conduct by sitting down on it.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

The editor of the Wilmington Star says he "has eaten dainties made of peanut meal, but has never tried cotton seed flour." A few years ago, cotton seed flour had quite a run in Charlotte and some housekeepers caught the knack of making a palatable article of bread from it, some even having made a good article of ice cream. The mills, however, found it more profitable to run on the ordinary commercial product, and so many uses having been found for the by-products, there appeared to be no particular reason for pushing cotton seed as a competitor to corn and wheat. The fact was demonstrated, however, that cotton seed is capable of being converted into a wholesome article of human food.—Charlotte Observer.

The reports from the strawberry sections of the State say that this season has been largely a disappointment, that the prices which have been obtained have not been up to the mark, and that the season ended with huge quantities of berries on hand which it was not worth while to pick for market. There is no telling when circumstances will arise which will do hurt to the strawberry crop, and we believe that the time has come when strawberry growers should turn their attention to berry by-products, so as to utilize the tremendous waste which now exists and make it so that there will be a steady, paying market for the crop. The matter is one which should receive the consideration of individuals and of all sections in which there are many growers of berries. There is an increasing demand for strawberry products, this in the way of crushed fruit, jellies, preserves and marmalades. If there is concerted effort along the line of such preparation of strawberries we believe that the results will be most gratifying, that they will bring cash returns so as to turn a losing season into one that will pay. In all sections the growers should unite into associations and give study to meeting the problem which will save many thousands of bushels of strawberries which now go to waste, and arrange for the making of strawberry products. One of the new methods of keeping strawberries is by refrigeration, and what has been done along this line can be extended. By means of such refrigeration it would be possible to distribute strawberry products throughout the year, and to furnish these so that the quality of the fruit would practically be unimpaired. Strawberry growers should investigate the matter, and should get in touch with the United States Department of Agriculture, which is now urging the value of berry by-products. It has issued a number of publications concerning strawberries, and its specialists are ready to furnish additional information on a matter which should be one of deep interest to strawberry growers. Its assistance may help solve an economic problem.—Raleigh News and Observer.

MURPHY BURIES PAST
LAID BARE BY T. R.

Displays Interest Only in Future When Asked for Comment.

(From the New York Tribune.)

Charlie Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall and, according to a well known colonel, a friend of William Barnes, who the same colonel said in court (and got away with it) was a political boss, believe only in the future. Proof:

"Mr. Murphy," a reporter asked him last night, "have you any comment on the Roosevelt-Barnes verdict?"

"That's past," was the reply.

"Some people say that you were hit just as hard as Mr. Barnes in the finding of the jury," he was told.

"That's Past," came the second evidence of belief only in the future.

"Then there isn't going to be any comeback from you against the things Mr. Roosevelt has said?"

"That's past," was the clinching argument as to his belief.

All of which occurred before the meeting of the 13 sachems of Tammany last night. Later John R. Voohis was elected for the fourth time grand sachem of the order. The sachems also referred to a special committee the matter of building a new clubhouse for Tammany.

Only 5% PLUS for the Best "Non-Skid"

PRACTICALLY all Non-Skid Tires that make serious claims to non-skid efficiency cost you 10% to 30% more than Plain Tread Tires of same brand and material.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our plain tread tires.

Here's how and Why!

o o o

FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard (and being Candid with ourselves) we have found a Short-Cut to make the best Safety Tread ever put on a Tire cost us only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain-Tread of similar quality.

Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES "A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30 x 3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$15.10
30 x 3½	12.20	13.35	14.20	21.70	23.60
32 x 3½	14.00	15.40	16.90	22.65	25.30
34 x 4	20.35	22.30	23.80	31.15	33.85
36 x 4½	28.70	32.15	33.60	41.65	41.40
37 x 5	33.90	39.80	41.80	49.85	82.05

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:

—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

COUNCIL INCREASES HOSPITAL'S BUDGET

Members Think County is Imposing on City.

Meeting of Board of Commissioners to be Held Tomorrow—Council Invited—Statement by Representative Stacy.

Following a special meeting of City Council yesterday morning, when that body, at the request of the Board of Managers of the James Walker Memorial Hospital, decided to increase its appropriation to the hospital from $8,000 to $10,000, a call has been issued for a special meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, to be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, to which the members of City Council have been invited, and at which meeting the county's appropriation will be considered. A law passed at the last Legislature makes it mandatory that the county and city contribute equally to the support of the hospital.

Under the former law, the county appropriated 50 per cent more than the city, the former contributing $12,000 and the latter $8,000. Under the new law the city will pay $2,000 more than formerly, while the county will pay $2,000 less.

The new law came in for considerable adverse criticism yesterday morning, members of Council declaring that it had been passed without Council being consulted, though it will be remembered that the Commissioners gave notice of their intention to have the law passed, and copies of the act were furnished the local press and printed some time before the bill was enacted into law. The opinion was also expressed by the members of Council that the city is bearing the burden in every joint obligation it shares with the county, among the instances cited being the appropriation for the health department; the fact that the police department's work practically supports the Recorder's court, from which the city gets no returns, nor from the work of the prisoners on the county roads; that the county does not aid the city financially in employing detectives to ferret out crimes, and others.

The Smith's Creek Bridge.

Mention was also made that the bridge over Smith's Creek was about ready to be condemned as dangerous, and members of Council commented in this connection on the recent extension of the city limits, whereby Smith's Creek is now inside the city, the inference being that the bill had been changed in Raleigh to provide the north bank of the creek as the city line, instead of the south bank, so as to force upon the city the responsibility for building the new bridge when the occasion arose.

At the meeting yesterday morning, representing the Board of Managers were Messrs. W. H. Sprunt, Sam Bear, Jr., Dr. R. B. Slocumb and Geo. B. Elliott, Esq. All members of Council were present, and also Mr. W. A. McGirt, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners.

Members of Council stated that their desire to give the hospital all support possible, recognizing that it was a most deserving institution and great asset to the city and county. However, they thought it was trying to impose too much of the burden on the city.

The members of the Board of Managers impressed upon Council the necessity for a continuation of the same total appropriation as heretofore, mentioning that even with this it is necessary to fall back upon private subscriptions to make ends meet. Mr. Bear mentioned that only recently Miss Lucile Murchison donated $5,000 to the institution, and had also expended $1,500 for repairs to the building.

After some further discussion, the following resolution was adopted by Council, increasing the appropriation as stated:

"Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Wilmington, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, that estimate No. 39, adopted on the 28th day of May, 1915, and carrying appropriations for the expenses of the City of Wilmington for the fiscal year ending May 31st, 1916, be and the same is hereby amended by inserting under the head of Health and Hospitals the sum of eleven thousand, five hundred dollars, in lieu of the sum of nine thousand, five hundred dollars, this amendment being for the purpose of increasing the appropriation for the James Walker Memorial Hospital from eight thousand to ten thousand dollars, and the total of said budget is hereby correspondingly increased from three hundred and thirteen thousand, six hundred and sixty-seven dollars to three hundred and fifteen thousand, six hundred and sixty-seven dollars."

Prior to the adoption of the resolution, Chairman McGirt, of the Board of Commissioners, made a statement, declaring that the majority of Council seemed to be laboring under a misapprehension. He recounted the action of the Commissioners on December 17th last, when a resolution was adopted calling upon the county's representatives in the General Assembly to equalize the city and county appropriations to the hospital, and called to the attention of Council the fact that this resolution was published in the local press, as was also the bill later on, before it was enacted into law. He mentioned this, he said, merely to emphasize that nothing had been done under cover.

Mr. McGirt said that he would not argue the point as to whether the city should pay an equal amount with the county. He was present, he said, to ask that a committee from Council meet with a committee from the Board of Commissioners and determine what amount was to be paid to the hospital. He expressed every confidence in the ability of the Board of Managers, and in the worth of the institution, but observed that duty to oath of office made it necessary to go carefully in expending the taxpayers' money.

City Fathered Bill.

Commenting last evening on the statements made at the Council meeting yesterday morning with reference to the Smith's Creek bridge matter, W. P. Stacy, Esq., who represented New Hanover county in the last Legislature, when the charter amendment extending the city limits was passed, declared that the bill was enacted into law just as drawn up and approved by City Council, with one exception. When the bill reached Raleigh, Mr. Stacy said, it was found that the line did not follow Mineral Spring branch at Delgado, as had previously been agreed upon in mass meeting, but deviated and took in a portion of the Delgado mill. This was changed to conform to the original plan, which made Mineral Spring branch the line. This was the only change made, Mr. Stacy said.

Furthermore, he said, while in Wilmington on a week-end trip, before the bill was enacted into law, he made inquiry as to why the northern bank of Smith's Creek and the eastern bank of Burnt Mill creek were made the boundary lines, instead of following the thread of the streams, as is usually the custom. He was informed, he said, that the city wanted these streams within the city limits, so that it would have jurisdiction over them and could, by ordinance, prohibit their pollution and thus protect the health of the citizens.

"Of course," said Mr. Stacy, "we could not bring Smith's Creek within the city limits without also taking in the bridge across it. This was the bill drawn by City Council. They wanted it that way, and we passed it. I think their reasons for wanting the streams inside the city are valid, but it comes with poor grace for them to attempt to repudiate their own bill when they find that it carries a burden as well as a benefit, and especially in the face of the fact that the very point in question was called to their attention before the law was passed."

Mr. Stacy also pointed out that the hospital appropriation equalization bill was drawn under authority of a resolution passed by the Board of Commissioners, and was published in the local press before it was enacted into law. No protest was made until after the bill was passed, he said, and then only one Councilman had protested about it.

BAPTIST UNION HAS PROFITABLE SESSIONS

Dr. E. W. Sikes Will Speak at Calvary Church Today.

Interesting Addresses Heard Yesterday—"Morning Watch" Service This Morning—Rev. Braxton Craig Delivers Address.

The Baptist Union meeting which has been in session at Calvary Baptist church since Friday night will be featured today by an address at 11 a. m. by Dr. E. W. Sikes, dean of Wake Forest College, "Morning Watch" services and other exercises of particular interest to the members of this denomination and their friends. The addresses yesterday were highly profitable and inspiring. Rev. Braxton Craig, of Monroe, field representative of the Judson Centennial fund, made a stirring appeal in behalf of foreign missions.

The atendance at the meetings has been up to expectations and at the service last night there was a large congregation, all of the Baptist churches being represented by many of their members. Yesterday at 1 o'clock the visiting representatives to the meeting were given a splendid dinner at the Y. M. C. A., this having been prepared and served by the ladies of the congregation of Calvary Baptist church.

Mr. G. E. Leftwich, a well known business man of this city, last night made a most excellent talk on the laymen's movement and what it stands for, and this was followed by an interesting stereopticon lecture, illustrated by 50 slides, on the Baptist Central China Mission, the latter feature having been in charge of Miss Gaynelle Nixon.

Rev. O. N. Marshall, pastor of the Seagate Baptist church, made an inspiring address at the morning service on "How We May Sustain a Growing Interest in the Work of the Kingdom," which was followed by helpful talks by Rev. M. O. Alexander and Rev. W. G. Hall on "Christian Education." One of the most inspiring features of the service was the singing which was led by Mr. C. Y. Devaun.

Rev. R. M. von Miller, of Jacksonville, made a helpful and profitable address on "Christ and Soul Saving," and Rev. C. V. Brooks spoke on "The Preacher's Prayer Life."

Following the dinner at the Y. M. C. A. another session was held in the afternoon at which Rev. J. A. Sullivan and Rev. W. G. Hall spoke on special features of church work. Mr. D. L. Gore was heard in an instructive address on "Business Methods in Church Work." Resolutions of thanks to the public press of Wilmington were adopted.

A special feature of the services today will be the "Morning Watch" this morning at 7:30 o'clock which will be in charge of Mr. O. B. Hinnant. The programme for today follows:

7:30 a. m.—"The Morning Watch," Mr. O. B. Hinnant.

10 a. m.—A model B. Y. P. U. programme presented by the Wilmington unions.

10:45 a. m.—Recess.

11 a. m.—"Ministerial Education," Dr. E. W. Sikes.

3 p. m.—"The Boy Life in the Church," Mr. O. B. Hinnant.

4 p. m.—Sunday school taught by visiting teachers.

8 p. m.—Evangelistic service led by the visiting pastors.

The programme for the model B. Y. P. U. service is as follows:

Song by the congregation.

Prayer, led by Mr. C. V. DeVaun.

Scripture reading, by Mr. J. M. Batson.

Anthem, by the choir.

Introductory, by Mr. Hardy Lanier.

Training for church membership, Mr. L. F. Gore.

The weekly meeting, Mr. Kenneth Partin.

Selection, by male quartette.

The study course, Mr. C. C. Cashwell.

The Bible readers' course, by Mr. J. A. McDougall.

"Is a B. Y. P. U. Worth while?" Mr. J. W. Hollis.

Song, by the congregation.

Benediction, Mr. J. M. Bullard.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS

Rev. Braxton Craig Will Preach at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Braxton Craig of Monroe, field representative in North Carolina of the Judson Centennial missionary fund, will deliver an address on foreign missions this morning at 11 o'clock at the First Baptist church and will preach tonight at 8 o'clock. Mr. Craig is in Wilmington to attend the Union meeting at Calvary Baptist church. He is an able speaker and is said to have all the force and eloquence of his distinguished brother, Governor Locke Craig.

Service at Seagate.

On account of the Union meeting at Calvary Baptist church, there will be no service at Seagate Baptist church this morning, but the pastor, Rev. O. N. Marshall, will preach tonight at 8 o'clock on "The Two Ways."

WILL DISCUSS EDUCATION

Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Adopts Policy as to Its Monthly Meetings.

In accordance with the policy of the new executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce in having a definite programme for the regular monthly meetings of this body, educational conditions in Wilmington and New Hanover county will be discussed at the next meeting which will be held on June 10. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance not only of the members but also of the general public.

Chairman J. O. Carr, of the Board of Education, and Superintendent John J. Blair, of the city schools, and several other citizens will make addresses explaining the needs of the schools and telling something of the wonderful progress that has been made. The business men of the city regard the schools as one of the biggest assets of the community and the members of the Chamber of Commerce will endeavor to find all the assistance possible in their development.

The recent county commencement was a revelation to many Wilmington citizens. The excellence of the schools of the city and county have been widely commented upon and Wilmington is rightly regarded as one of the foremost cities of the State when it comes the education of its children.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce feel that they should manifest their interest in the schools by becoming thoroughly acquainted with them in every detail.

WEATHER AGAIN CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF MATCHES

Finals of Spring Golf Tournament Will Take Place Tuesday Afternoon.

On account of the heavy showers which fell throughout the morning and well into the afternoon, the final matches in the Spring championship golf tournament were again postponed yesterday afternoon and will be played on Tuesday afternoon. At 2 o'clock it was still raining and it was decided that it would be better to wait. Later in the afternoon the clouds cleared away and it is expected that the putting greens will be in ideal shape for good games Tuesday afternoon.

The ladies' mixed foursome that were to have been played Tuesday afternoon have been postponed until later in the week.

BISHOP DARST IN RICHMOND

Will Conduct Services Today in Church He Was Formerly Rector.

Rt. Rev. Thomas C. Darst, D. D., Bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina, will conduct services and preach at St. James' Episcopal church in Richmond, Va., this morning at 11 o'clock.

Bishop Darst was rector of St. James' church when he was elected bishop, having succeeded the late Rev. William Meade Clark, D. D., and his sermon this morning will be the first he will have preached in Richmond since his consecration to the episcopacy. He is the youngest diocesan bishop in the United States, though one of the suffragan bishops in the West is his junior by several months.

HOLIDAY HOURS TOMORROW.

Usual Observance of Memorial Day by Wilmington Postoffice.

Tomorrow being Memorial Day and a National holiday, the usual holiday hours will be observed by the Wilmington postoffice. The banks will also be closed during the day. Ordinarily May 30th is observed as Memorial day, but as it comes on Sunday this year the 31st will be observed instead.

The hours of the postoffice are as follows: Stamp window will be open from 10 to 11 A. M. and from 4 to 6 P. M. General delivery window will be open from 11 A. M. to 12 M. and from 6 to 8 P. M. Registry window will be open from 10 to 11 A. M. and from 5 to 6 P. M. One delivery and one collection will be made by the carriers.

Leonard Sterne, White, Will Be Tried Wednesday by Recorder.

Because A. G. Ricaud, Esq., one of the attorneys for the prosecution, was engaged in Superior Court yesterday, the trial of Young Leonard Sterne, charged with blackmail, was continued by Recorder Empie yesterday until Wednesday, this being satisfactory to the defense. Sterne is represented by L. Clayton Grant, Esq., and A. G. Ricaud and Herbert McClammy, Esq., are assisting County Solicitor George Peschau.

Rufus Freeman, colored, was found guilty of a charge of cruelty to animals by killing a dog in Federal Point township and fined $10 and the costs.

CHILDREN'S DAY EXERCISES.

Usual Observance at Fifth Street Methodist Church Today.

Following the usual custom, the children of Fifth Street Methodist Sunday school, will today render an interesting programme which has been prepared under the direction of Mrs. M. J. Fowler.

These exercises will take place at 11 o'clock this morning, at the regular church service hour. There will be no preaching, although Sunday school will be at the usual hour, 9:45 A. M.

All are cordially invited, and are assured of an interesting programme by the children.

LUMINA OPENS SATURDAY

Summer Schedule on Suburban Line. Regular Orchestra Will Give Concert Next Sunday Afternoon.

The formal opening of the summer season at Wrightsville Beach will take place next Saturday when the summer schedule goes into effect on the suburban line of the Tidewater Power Company and the regular orchestra of ten talented musicians will make their first appearance at the week-end dance which will be given Saturday night at Lumina. The orchestra will give their first Sunday concert on next Sunday afternoon.

During the past week many Wilmington people moved down to the beach and by the end of this week it is expected that practically all of the cottages will be occupied. The Seashore Hotel opens for the season on Tuesday. The Oceanic Hotel and several of the cottages have been open for the last two weeks and there are already a number of out-of-town visitors at the beach.

From present indications, say those who are familiar with the situation, this will be a most successful season at the beach. It is not believed that the present unprecedented conditions caused by the European war will cause any decrease in the number of visitors from a distance as many of those who ordinarily make longer trips will this year decide to spend their vacations nearer home. The beach has been extensively advertised throughout the South and many reservations have already been made at the hotels and cottages.

Lumina, long considered one of the most popular pavilions on the South Atlantic coast, will this year prove to be as popular as ever with an orchestra second to none at any summer resort and other features of interest.

The upper refreshment stand at Lumina is already open for the accommodation of the public. Mr. W. B. Shuler will again have charge of this feature this year and needless to say it will be up to its former high standard.

A Woman's Charm

Beautiful hair, fluffy, lustrous, abundant and free from dandruff, is one of woman's greatest charms — it's her main delight—yet many who would be most attractive but for their streaked, thin and lifeless hair, think there is no remedy and that pretty hair is a gift of nature. Beautiful hair is always a matter of care and proper nourishment of the hair roots.

If your hair has been neglected, it thin, faded, dry or too oily, Parisian Sage, a delicately perfumed liquid, well rubbed into the scalp and brushed through the hair will work wonders—you will be surprised and delighted with the first application—not only will your hair appear twice as abundant—soft, fluffy and radiant with life—but really doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage suppiles all hair and scalp needs. It surely removes dandruff and cleanses the hair of all dust and excess oil. It is a harmless, inexpensive and scientific tonic that never fails to act as a real and lasting benefit to the hair and scalp.

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage, which is easily obtained from R. R. Bellamy or any drug counter, the best, most pleasant and invigorating hair tonic made.

CHARMING ENTERTAINMENT IN HONOR OF MISS KEITH.

The following from Friday's High Point Enterprise will be of interest to many friends in Wilmington:

"Mrs. Clarence Smith entertained this morning at 10 o'clock at her home on Broad street, the Delta Tau and Gamma Deta club, in honor of Miss Leila Keith, who is here for the Lindsay-Carraway wedding, and who is a guest of Mrs. Smith.

"The hall, library and parlor of the Smith home were artistically decorated with pink roses, pink and white marsh roses, and masses of daisies. Miss Kathleen Petty invited the guests in and in the hall they were received most informally by Mrs. Smith in black crepe de chine; Miss Keith in lavender silk with Dresden touches, and Miss Ethel Smith, another guest, in white lingerie. In the prettily decorated rooms seven tables were placed for rook. As the guests entered Mrs. James Hardee served punch in the hall, then the popular game began. No prizes were given, but Mrs. Smith presented each of those present with exquisite little crystalbud vases, each holding a pink rosebud.

"Miss Keith, the guest of honor, was presented with a silver bud vase holding a pink rosebud. Mrs. A. J. Owen then assisted the hostess in serving ice cream moulded as pink roses, pink rosebuds, and rose clusters, with delicious white cake, and pink and white mints. During the morning Mrs. H. I. Coffield and Mrs. Gurney Briggs sang several songs most charmingly."

Mr. William A. Reynolds and Miss Virginia Jones, daughter of Mrs. Mary Jones, were quietly married Friday night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, No. 816 South Fifth street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Hall, pastor of Southside Baptist church. The groom was formerly a machinist at the Wilmington Iron Works and is now first machinist on the United States battleship Arkansas. He is on a leave of absence and will be in this city until June 16th. Mrs. Reynolds will remain in Wilmington. They have many friends who will extend best wishes.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT DANCE LAST EVENING.

A very enjoyable and largely attended week-end dance was given at Lumina at Wrightsville Beach, last evening by Grainger's orchestra. Special cars were run from Front and Princess streets and the members of the orchestra were so well pleased with the large attendance that it is planned to have a mid-week dance on Wednesday night of this week. The music by the orchestra added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

MISS ETHEL SCOTT BREWER BRIDE OF MR. WM. A. LEITCH

As a pleasant surprise to a host of friends in Wilmington, where both are deservedly popular in a wide circle of friends, is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Ethel Scott Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Brewer, of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. William Alexander Leitch, of this city, the marital vows having been taken in a simple very pretty service at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. Holmes Davis, No. 1707 Princess street, the Rev. J. M. Wells, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

Conforming to wishes of both the bride and groom, the service was quiet and without ostentation and was witnessed only by relatives and a few friends of the young people to the marriage vow. Following the ceremony and the felicitation of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Leitch took their departure on the afternoon Atlantic Coast Line train at 3:45 o'clock for the mountains of Western North Carolina, where they will spend their honeymoon, returning to the city in about ten days and making their home here.

The bride is a most charming young woman and has frequently visited her sister, Mrs. Davis, in Wilmington, being much loved and admired in a wide circle of friends, who will welcome her to the city as the bride of Mr. Leitch. The groom for a long number of years has been connected with the passenger traffic department of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company.

TALENTED SINGER WILL VISIT HOME IN WILMINGTON.

Miss Anna Graham Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Harris, Sr., of this city, will arrive in Wilmington Tuesday morning, this being her first visit here as her home. For the last four years she has been in Philadelphia studying voice culture with such teachers as Nichols, Douty and Herbert Wilbur Greens, of New York. She is now considered one of the leading concert contraltos of Philadelphia, with a most encouraging future.

Miss Harris is the contralto soloist at the First Unitarian church in Philadelphia and also does special solo work at St. Luke's and the Church of the Epiphany, where the appropriation annually for music is $50,000. She will be the soloist at the latter church today at the Memorial Day service.

Speaking of one of her recent recitals at Griffith Hall in Philadelphia before a large audience, Musical America said, "Miss Harris sings with facility throughout an admirable range, in which all the tones are even and well placed. She has a sympathetic voice that is prompted by musical temperament and artistic understanding."

The Philadelphia Record, referring to a concert in which Miss Harriss appeared said, "The delightful contralto voice of Anna Graham Harris was the subject of much favorable comment. She has a voice of lovely quality." In an appreciative criticism of a recital the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin said: "Miss Harris displayed a contralto voice of fine range and volume, with high tones that were especially full and rich. One of the most pleasing features of her contributions was her clean-cut enunciation."

Miss Harris will receive a warm and cordial welcome in Wilmington. Lovers of good music will hope that while she is in the city she will favor her home people with her singing. She will be in Wilmington for about two weeks and will then go to the Brookfield summer school of singing, where she will undergo daily coaching, preparatory to her concert engagements in the fall.

Just received a lot of Dimity Bed Spreads, the very thing for the season. J. Weil, 111 Market Street. my30-7t

MAY TERM OF COURT ENDED

Verdict for Plaintiff in Case of Sleeper vs. Wood—Motion Docket Called Yesterday.

A two-weeks' term of Superior Court for the trial of civil cases came to an end yesterday, the business before the tribunal having been disposed of by noon and the term expiring by limitation yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Judge George Rountree, of this city, who presided, goes to Burgaw tomorrow to preside over a criminal term there this week.

In the case of E. L. Sleeper against John E. Wood and others, involving the title to a tract of land near Castle Haynes, which has engaged the attention of court for several days, the jury yesterday, after being out only a short time, returned a verdict answering all issues in favor of the plaintiff.

This case disposed of, the motion docket was taken up, and a number of judgments and orders were signed. Entries were made as follows:

Humphrey Bros. vs. Buell Crocker Lumber Company, order.

Haynes Automobile Company vs. L. J. Carter, judgment for $751.88 and interest from July 22, 1914.

Acme Manufacturing Company vs. Willie Moore and others, judgment against Willie Moore for $653.98 and interest from January 1, 1915.

Acme Manufacturing Company vs. R. W. Pumpelly, judgment non suit.

Acme Manufacturing Company vs. George C. Leach, judgment for $588.18 and interest.

Acme Manufacturing Company vs. L. L. Johnson, judgment for $514.77 and interest from April 20,1915.

City of Wilmington vs. J. S. Sellers, judgment dismissal.

Sarah Ann Merritt vs. F. W. Dick, trustee, et al. final decree of dismissal.

R. Q. Brown vs. A. C. L. Railroad Company, final decree.

J. G. Callahan vs. S. A. L. Railway, time allowed to file pleadings.

K. C. Sidbury vs. Eddie M. Bryan, alias Summons.

W. B. Cooper vs. Anderson Harrell, judgment.

City of Wilmington vs. Tidewater Power Company, judgment non suit.

Charles M. Stieff vs. Sarah Hollingsworth, judgment.

George A. Grimsley vs. R. A. Wright et al. judgment.

Carolina Coast Products Company vs. Atlantic Phosphate and Oil Company, judgment non suit.

E. P. Brock vs. H. R. McNeill, judgment non suit.

Except in cases where there are special orders it was ordered that time be allowed to file pleadings.

COTTAGE OPENS TUESDAY

Cooleemee Cottages Will Have "House Warming" for Friends.

Cooleemee cottage, the Y. W. C. A. summer home at Wrightsville Beach, will be formally opened Tuesday afternoon when a "house warming" will be given to the members and friends of the club. Open house will be observed from 1 to 9 p. m. and the public is cordially invited to attend. The extension committee will be assisted in receiving and serving the guests by the social committee of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Rebecca Charles, of Greensboro, who will be the hostess at the cottage during the summer, is expected to arrive tomorrow. There have been a large number of registrations for membership in the club and this is expected to be one of the most popular features of the Y. W. C. A. during the summer. Many of the friends of the association have made contributions of towels, sofa pillows, dishes and other articles of equipment.

The cottage is practically new and has ten rooms besides the sleeping porch. The members will use it as a recreation center while at the beach. Meals will be served at practically cost.

Contract for Gymnasium.

At a meeting of the building committee of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday morning the contract with Morton & Cox for the erection of the gymnasium was signed and work will begin immediately. The tennis court which is one of the popular features of the association will be moved to another lot as the gymnasium site will be on the present court.

Funeral at Harrison Creek.

The funeral of Miss Kate Rochelle, who died at the home of her parents near Wilmington Friday afternoon, was held at Harrison Creek in Pender Creek yesterday afternoon. She was 22 years old and had many friends who were greatly grieved to learn of her death.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. Robert Burnett has returned from Chapel Hill to be at home for the summer.

—Mr. Harry Haley, editor of the Southport News, was a business visitor in the city yesterday.

—Mr. R. C. Hood, of Greensboro, was a business visitor in the city yesterday, a guest at the Hotel Wilmington.

—Mr. Harold Wolf will leave this morning for Marion, S. C., where he will spend a week or ten days with his father, Mr. O. F. Wolf.

—Many friends of Mr. John M. Thompson will be glad to know that he is doing nicely after an operation for appendicitis at the James Walker Memorial Hospital Friday morning.

—Elsewhere in today's issue Sheriff Cowan calls attention to the fact that taxes under Schedule B, applying to business and professional people, are now due, and should be paid at once.

LOCAL DOTS.

—Rev. W. M. Craig left yesterday for Greensboro, to deliver an address before the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of Guilford college this evening. He will return tomorrow.

—The Barnes & Cox Sanitary Plumbing Company are now located at No. 806 North Fourth street, where they will have more room to take care of their increasing business. The public is invited to call and inspect their new quarters.

—Plainclothesman Leon George had a new assignment yesterday, this being to see that negro urchins and others riding bicycles observed the rules prescribed by the traffic ordinance. Three colored boys were arrested and recognized for their appearance before the Recorder. Officer George also arrested Ed Walker, colored, who is charged with violating the prohibition law.

WILL COMPLETE BRIDGE BY SEPTEMBER FIRST

Laborers Now Engaged in Preliminary Work on Hilton Structure.

The contractors will have the new lift draw which will re-place the old style draw at Hilton railroad bridge completed by September 1, according to the present plans, said George B. Elliott, Esq., president of the Wilmington Railway Bridge Company, yesterday morning. A force of laborers is already engaged in doing the preliminary work. In addition to the installation of the draw the entire bridge will be strengthened and reinforced throughout. The draw will be a lift span of nearly 100 feet in length and will be similar to the one now in operation at the Navassa bridge.

The Vaughn Construction Company, of Roanoke, Va., has the contract for building the sub-structure and the Virginia Bridge and Construction Company for installing the super-structure. The cost for the entire work will be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

WITH THE MAN IN THE STREET

A Vision Symbolized—There was something of a sublime inspiration about the parade of the Wilmington and New Hanover county school children last Wednesday—that, and something else, a something infinitely touching—something that gripped the soul of those who saw and caused even strong, bronzed men to shed an unhidden tear.

More than 4,000 children were in line. Ah, what a sight it was! Here was humanity in the morning of life, and one felt the beating, pulsing, trusting heart of childhood, so confident of the way—so altogether unafraid.

Perhaps the secret of those tears lay in the thought of the years ahead—years that will erase from those trustful little faces that childish look of confidence and carve instead the lines of care that come with the realization of shattered ideals and shaken faith. Partly this thought perhaps, and maybe also a mingling of pride.

For of the way that Wilmington and New Hanover county have met their obligations to childhood, visualized so effectually in that marching mass of little souls, no citizen need feel anything but a pride—that and a determination that what has been begun shall not be allowed to retrogress.

The school authorities here, with the loyal assistance of the teachers worked untiringly and with infinite patience to perfect arrangements for the parade, and it was worth it all. It is but a memory now—a memory, however, that will live long with those who saw it.

For in it many glimpsed for the first time the full beauty of the vision that inspired McIver and Aycock, who laid the foundations upon which men like Noble, Kidder, Joyner, Carr, Blair and Catlett are giving the best efforts of their lives to build upon.

More power to them.

The Lane of Roses—Eastward from the city, twin lines of steel rails stretch down to the sea—the suburban line of the Tidewater Power Company. And, from just outside the city limits, eastward, as far as Winter Park, a Dorothy Perkins rose vine entwines every one of the poles supporting the trolley wires.

For the past week or more every one of these vines has been in bloom, and a ride through this lane of roses is an inspiring and uplifting experience.

The perfect beauty of the masses of pink and white bloom clustering about the base of each pole, and their rich, sweet fragrance on the soft summer air, combine to create an atmosphere that brings easement to a weary soul and jaded mind. For the suburbanites the daily trips over the line cease to be part of the day's monotonous grind and take on the color of experiences eternally new; while to a stranger, on his first trip over the line at this season of the year, it appears almost as a floral paradise.

Nature's sermons are easily read, and a soul must be narrow indeed not to be ennobled by the lesson the roses teach.

They're So Common—And, speaking of Dorothy Perkins roses, we are reminded of the declaration of a certain Wilmingtonian only a short time ago to the effect that she no longer cared for the Dorothy Perkins or Lady Gay roses, because "they were becoming so common."

What a sublime, snobbish slander on one of Nature's most perfect creations. Common indeed! Our friend has much to learn.

No flower is common, for God—or Nature—never created anything common. Human beings sometimes become common—but they are never born so.

We venture to express the opinion that there is more of beauty and art and sweetness in a single petal of a Dorothy Perkins rose—or even a wood violet—than will ever be compassed in the soul of a person so narrow as to call a flower common because it beautifies the humble home of someone whose name does not grace the social register.

About Girls—"Some girls," remarked a disgruntled bachelor, the other day, "don't seem to understand the difference between polite attentions and the tender manifestations of love." When we, uninitiated in the mysteries of that Mighty Foe which makes or mars men, upbuilds or destroys nations, submitted a wondering "Wherefore?" the speaker enlightened us thus:

"A man admires a girl, say. She sees the admiration, is flattered by it and straightway imagines herself in love with the man and him equally in love with her. Also she expects tender avowals and lets the man see that she expects them. He, being an obliging idiot, 'tenderly avows,' and after a few weeks or months, when he has grown tired of this mock love-making and attempts by degrees to end it, he ofttimes finds that the girl is putting forth efforts to hold him. Then it is that she becomes an object of pity, or, worse, disgust, and loses all hope of ever winning his affections, for men, whether their intentions be serious or fickle, enter the Game of Hearts with ardor, zest and a love on conquest innate, which, if the victory be easily won, gives place to disappointment, disillusionment, disgust. Haven't you noticed that as soon as a girl begins to evince interest in a man, unless he be securely bound by the chains of love, he will seek an escape?

"It's true, and the reason there are so many unhappy marriages in the world is because the woman in the case is too anxious to wed."

So it would seem, from above remarks, that it behooves the maid to discover to which class the attentions paid her belong, ere she encourages the man—too much. With apologies to the Fair Sex, if we presumptuous seem, we wish to offer a few facts in regard to the Un-fair Sex, which we observed in the pass-ing.

If a man greets a girl in Hail-Fellow-Well-Met manner and calls her "Chum" or "Pal," — or "Sister;" if he looks her in the eye, calmly; if he turns his back to her that he may speak to another; if he is inattentive while she sings or criticises her clothes; if he squeezes her hand; if he knows where to put his hands and his hat; if he fails to be foolish in every conceivable way, then she should never fall in love with him; let him do or say what he will, he only admires her.

On the other hand, if he is talkative with others but quiet with her; if he is anxious to see that she is warmly wrapped when motoring in winter and occupying the coolest seat on the lawn in summer; if he teases her sister and looks serious if she is addressed by another man; if he talks low and seldom looks her in the eye; if he goes red at her slightest kindness and is wretched if she is unkind; if, in fact, he is the most awkward, stupid, silly still and solemn of all her friends—then she may make him happy, for he loves her. But she should keep her heart intact until the right one comes, for a mistake of this sort is too grave to risk.

Editor's Note: While the Man in the Street cheerfully makes room for the above in this column, he is compelled to admit that he cannot subscribe to it in toto. It was written by an unknown friend who has been a frequent contributor of late, and who has written some of the best stuff printed in this column. From the literary standpoint the above is well worth while, and our friend may have the situation sized up correctly. We frankly confess that we don't know enough about "girls" to judge, but it is our belief that whenever a man tries to reduce the eternal feminine to stated terms and attempts to lay down a broad rule to apply to the whole of that mysterious sex, he is riding for a fall. The feminine mind and heart is too complex to be understood by the Un-fair sex.

'Twas Ever Thus—Booth Tarkington, probably the foremost of the group of authors who are sons of the Hoosier State, has recently won new laurels through the creation of Penrod Schofield and William Sylvester Baxter, two boy characters destined to take rank in fiction along with the immortal Huck Finn. Penrod symbolizes the devilish ingenuity and infinite capacity for mischief common to the American small boy, while in William Sylvester Baxter, Tarkington has portrayed with equal accuracy the 17-year-old lad, smitten with his first attack of love.

William Sylvester, it was, who fondly named the object of his affections as "My wonderful baby-talk lady."

All this, of course, is by way of comparison with some of our Wilmington boys of about the same age, and just now experiencing their first attack of the same malady.

For instance, there's a certain youngster in town who always refers to the extremely youthful object of his palpitating admiration as his "Sweet-ee-dee."

Probably any of the high school boys can furnish you his name, since you're curious to know.

DELINQUENT TOWNS

Towns and Neighborhoods That Have Neglected Clean-Up Days.

(State Board of Health.)

The State Board of Health has its eyes on a number of towns and communities throughout the State that have not, up to the present time, held an annual clean-up week. Whether they intend to or not is not known. But it is known that if clean-up weeks are to be productive of the greatest good, that the sooner they are observed from now the more good they will accomplish.

Just as it is too late to lock the stable after the horse is stolen, so it becomes too late after the flies are hatched and swarming to clean up as a means of fly-prevention. This applies of course to the first fly crop which is, more or less, an easy matter to prevent if begun in time, but as there are other crops to follow in rapid succession, about every ten days, no time can be lost in preventing a full harvest. The greater the delay in getting at it, the harder the fight will be.

It was with a feeling of pride, no doubt, that the Governor of North Carolina, in viewing the matter of clean-up week, deemed it unnecessary to issue a clean-up week proclamation. Governors of other states have taken this means by way of suggesting to the people the importance of guarding against disease by promoting cleanly and sanitary home conditions. But there is no doubt but that North Carolina's Governor felt that the pride and the intelligence of North Carolina's citizens needed not this injunction to make them clean up their homes, neighborhoods and towns. He took this as a matter of course. Whether or not the Governor placed too high an estimate on the people's pride and health intelligence remains yet to be seen. Some towns and communities have only a few days of grace in which to prove themselves. Towns and neighborhoods that have no clean-up days are held in as high esteem as housekeepers who have no house-cleanings. They are in the same class.

HAD HER FUNERAL ALL FIXED.

Wife Says Husband Even Showed Where Coffin Was to Stand.

(New York Times.)

Justice Blackmar, in the Supreme Court, in Brooklyn, granted Mrs. Claire G. Rogan, of 34 Granite street, $7.50 a week alimony and $50 counsel fee pending the trial of her suit for separation from her husband, James F. Rogan, a law clerk. Mrs. Rogan alleges "cruel and inhuman treatment."

Mrs. Rogan says in her affidavit that in January, 1913, while she was seriously ill suffering from pleurisy, her husband sat at her bedside and told her all about arrangements he had made for her funeral. He showed her how he had arranged the furniture in the parlor and the spot where he intended to have her coffin placed. He also read to her a list of the mourners that were to be invited to attend the funeral and showed an utter disregard for her condition or feelings.

In February, 1913, according to Mrs. Rogan, while she was in St. Mary's Hospital recovering from an operation, her husband visited her accompanied by their 10-year-old son, Alfred. While there he said to the boy: "Take a look at your mother, Allie; you will never see her alive again."

Mrs. Rogan alleges that the boy cried bitterly and his father slapped his face because he showed emotion.

Rogan makes a general denial of his wife's charges.

NAMES GIRL FOR HIS SHIP.

Norwegian Captain Has Daughter Christened On Board.

(From the Philadelphia Record.)

Named after her father's vessel, the Norwegian steamer Vera, three-months-old Vera Rynning, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Rynning, was christened aboard the steamship, which is docked at pier No. 5, North Wharves. Flags of all nations decorated the boat for the gala event, and the elaborate ceremonies, which were carried out in accordance with the Scandinavian custom, were attended by the masters of many Norwegian vessels now in the harbor. The Rev. Millevoe, pastor of the Norwegian Seamen's church, had charge of the christening.

Flush Your Blood Get it Cleansed

Remarkable Remedy That Works All Through Your Body.

When you put a tablespoonful of S. S. S. into your stomach it gets straight into your blood. In less than five minutes it has become a wave of restorative influence wherever the blood has circulated. Does this read like magic? But it is absolutely true. Those powerful digestive juices in the stomach can not change the medicinal effect of S. S. S. The liver can not burn it. The lungs, skin and kidneys excrete it only after S. S. S. has set in motion millions of cells and nerves to throw off the countless germs that have infested every part of the body. And as S. S. S. continues to battle those troublesome pests that gather in the form of pimples, boils, eczema, acne, catarrh, rheumatism and other so-called blood disorders, it rouses into action a myriad of strange but well-understood corpuscles called luecocytes that actually devour or change or convert disease germs so they are readily and quickly cast out of the body. It is probably the best appreciated blood medcine known. You will find S. S. S. on sale in nearly every drug store in the U. S. Get a bottle today. And if your case is peculiar, write to the Medical Department, The Swift Specific Co., 165 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is conducted by a noted physician.

TREATMENT OF WOUNDED SOLDIER IS DESCRIBED

From Time He is Hit Until He is in Base Hospital.

Communication From an Eye-Witness Present With the British General Headquarters in France—Some Speedy Work.

London, May 29.—The treatment of a wounded man from the moment he is hit until he finds himself in a base hospital is the subject of a communication by the eye-witness present with the British general headquarters in France.

When a man is shot down during an advance, he is probably left lying in the open under a hail of shrapnel. From this position he is rescued by two stretcher bearers who choose an opportune time for rushing out and bearing him to the shelter of a trench. He is then conveyed through a communicating trench to the regimental aid post in a dugout or cellar. There he receives first aid from an army surgeon. The stretcher bearers may be either men selected from his own company or from the Royal Army Medical Corps.

After first aid, the wounded man is removed either by stretcher or horse ambulance to the nearest dressing station, where he passes from regimental aid to one of the divisional field ambulances. These organizations are composed of three sections, each consisting of one section of bearers, who collect the wounded, and a section in charge of the tent dressing stations. The advanced dressing stations are pushed as near the front as possible. On the arrival of the patient, his wounds are carefully attended to and an injection of anti-tetanis serum given.

The next place of treatment is at a more or less safe distance behind the firing line, generally in a church or school or other public building, possibly in a town. In this larger station the wounded man is made comfortable and given food and drink. The wounded here are assorted as to degrees of gravity and prepared for transport to the nearest casualty clearing station. Transport to and from these stations is done by the motor ambulance.

The clearing stations are generally situated at the railway heads so that patients can be removed direct to ambulance trains. In the true sense of the word, these stations are not hospitals, although they may retain cases of abdominal and head wounds when the men cannot be removed without danger. During the battle of Neuve Chapelle one clearing station of a normal capacity of 200 handled 800 daily for four consecutive days and received and passed on 3,653 cases with in a period of six days. They are quite elastic in make-up, but their staffs have to work day and night during battles. It is in these stations the patient experiences for the first time the luxury of lying on a bed and having a woman nurse in attendance. His length of stay depends on the train facilities, but as a rule he is placed on an ambulance within a few hours.

The train takes the wounded from what is known as the collecting zone to the evacuating zone, which means from the medical authority of the fighting army to that of the line of communications. There are fourteen ambulance trains now running in France, each with a personnel of three officers and forty-seven attendants of other ranks and three nursing sisters. The number conveyed depends on the nature of the cases—whether sitting or lying. Several of these trains were especially designed and built, but the rest were converted from the ordinary French coaches, with rooms for staff, dispensaries, kitchens and stores. Eventually the number of trains will be raised to twenty-four.

On arriving at one of the British military bases, the patient is carried in a motor ambulance to a fully equipped hospital. The permanent hospitals are divided into general and stationary. The general are the largest and best equipped, while the so-called stationary are intended to be mobile and moved up at various points on the lines of communication.

Red Cross and privately endowed hospitals are also found in the base cities and receive their share of the wounded. Hotels, casinos, convents, schools and temporary huts are used for both the army and civilian hospitals.

The object of this system is to relieve the fighting force of its sick and wounded as soon as possible, not only to remove a military burden but to give the wounded the best care and, what is often needed more than anything else, a change of scene.

LONDON HAS TOO MUCH SHADE.

Trees Once Pretty and Inoffensive Now Shut Out Sunlight.

(From London Chronicle.)

We are all agreed that trees improve the appearance of our streets and afford pleasant relief to an eye wearied by too much pavement and bricks and mortar. And we are all fairly well agreed that these streets, with nice, leafy trees on their sidewalks, should be the streets in which the other people live. That has always been the difficulty since London local authorities turned their attention to tree-planting in residential districts.

In their infancy the plane tree and Tree of Heaven, the two varieties that are usually chosen for the purpose, are pretty and inoffensive; but they are quick growers, with spreading branches, and the time comes when they develop into a nuisance, shutting out the sunlight and air in the months of foliage and filling the house with decayed vegetation in the autumn.

Prof. J. B. Farmer, of the Imperial College of Science and Technology, who has prepared a special report on tree planting in London for the Kensington council, says that, as a general rule, the streets most suitable for trees are those which run north and south. Then the trees on both sides of the road receive their due share or sunlight, and the houses on neither side are unfairly deprived of their light.

He adds that in streets running east and west the trees are apt to become a nuisance to the people who live on the north-facing side of the road.

The improved condition of the London atmosphere within recent years, according to the report, renders the experiment of varying the kinds of trees to be planted a hopeful one. Prof. Farmer suggests the lime, the single-leaved ash, Belle's poplar and the pink hybrid chestnut.

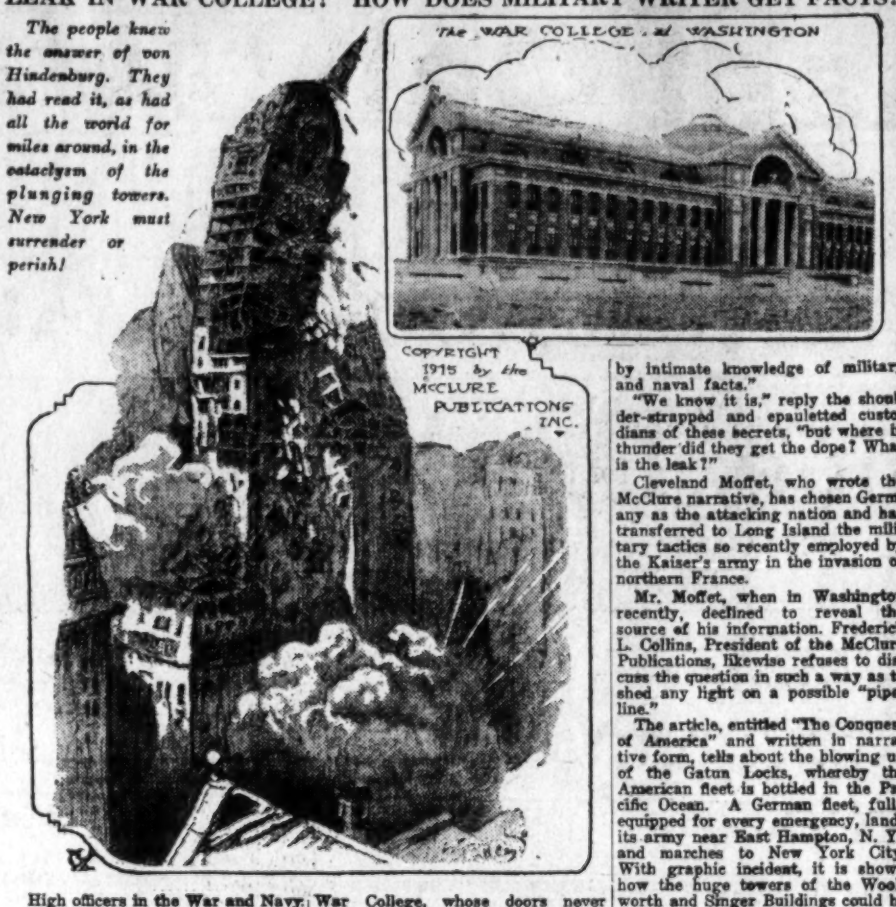
LEAK IN WAR COLLEGE? HOW DOES MILITARY WRITER GET FACTS?

The people knew the answer of von Hindenburg. They had read it, as had all the world for miles around, in the cataclysm of the plunging towers. New York must surrender or perish!



High officers in the War and Navy Departments, in whose custody repose America's war secrets, are regarding each other with suspicious looks. The unspoken question when they meet is, Have grave military confidences been betrayed, and, if so, by whom?

Uncle Sam has many secrets, but the most zealously guarded are those pertaining to his two fighting arms, the Army and Navy. The custodian of this precious information is the War College, whose doors never swing open except to the most trusted officers of our Army and Navy. The most skilled Raffles could not pick the lock.

And now comes McClure's Magazine with a startling exposition of the very things the War College has been so secretly debating. How an enemy could land 150,000 troops on our shores, and how we would ineffectually try to stop them are graphically described. And the magazine backs up its narrative with the statement that the information "is based on expert information, backed by intimate knowledge of military and naval facts."

"We know it is," reply the shoulder-strapped and epauletted custodians of these secrets, "but where in thunder did they get the dope? What is the leak?"

Cleveland Moffet, who wrote the McClure narrative, has chosen Germany as the attacking nation and has transferred to Long Island the military tactics so recently employed by the Kaiser's army in the invasion of northern France.

Mr. Moffet, when in Washington recently, declined to reveal the source of his information. Frederick L. Collins, President of the McClure Publications, likewise refuses to discuss the question in such a way as to shed any light on a possible "pipeline."

The article, entitled "The Conquest of America" and written in narrative form, tells about the blowing up of the Gatun Locks, whereby the American fleet is bottled in the Pacific Ocean. A German fleet, fully equipped for every emergency, lands its army near East Hampton, N. Y., and marches to New York City. With graphic incident, it is shown how the huge towers of the Woolworth and Singer Buildings could be toppled to the pavement with single shots from the giant guns of the invaders, and how the streets of New York could be swept clean with machine guns.

Nor is this all! The magazine announces that the June issue will reveal the plan foreign countries would put into effect in the invasion of New England and the capture of Boston.

German sympathizers in Washington have broadly hinted that the article is a part of the well-laid plan of the Allies in Europe to discredit Germany in the eyes of Americans.

BATTLE ABBEY OPEN FOR INSPECTION NOW

Part of Collection of Permanent Memorials of War.

One of the Attractions for Veterans Attending Confederate Reunion at Richmond This Week—Confederate Memorial.

Richmond, Va., May 29.—The Confederate Memorial Institute, known as the Battle Abbey, has been opened for inspection in connection with the United Confederate Veterans' reunion, which is to be held here June 1 to 3. The Institute forms an interesting part of the collection of permanent memorials of the Civil War, its promoters having had in mind the memorializing of the part played by the South in the great war events of 50 years ago.

The building, completion of which awaits the return of the artist, Charles Hoffbauer, from the European war, stands in the western part of Richmond, in the center of a five-acre park, a gift from the state of Virginia. Ground for the structure was broken January 1, 1912, and the cornerstone was laid the following May. The building is located on a raised terrace, a broad flight of stone steps flanked on either side by a balustrade, leading from the entrance to the lower levels of the terrace.

The structure, which is faced throughout with Indiana limestone, consists of a central pavilion, with a wing on each side, the total length being 150 feet and the height from the terrace level to the top of the parapet being 44 feet. At the main entrance is a portico of four stone columns of Roman-Ionic design, 25 feet in height. The two wings on the outside are divided into panels by means of pilasters of a slight projection and below the cornice are large stones, which, it is planned, will be transformed into carved panels to serve as memorials of some of the great events which the building is designed to commemorate.

The hall in the south wing will be known as the Memorial Room, for the decoration of which Thomas F. Ryan, of New York and Virginia, contributed a large sum. Mr. Hoffbauer has been engaged to decorate the walls of this room with paintings illustrative of the Civil War, but has not completed his work. The north wing of the institute will be used as a library. On one side will hang a large painting of Thomas Jefferson and his cabinet, as well as the portraits of all the war governors. The association intends to make the collection of pictures and books in the library of great historic value.

Treatment of the park surrounding the institute to make the grounds as essentially a part of the memorial as the building itself, is planned by those in charge of the work. The design of the court of honor includes a central panel of turf with recesses for statues at the sides and ends, they being outlined by a box border between which will be a ground cover of ivy, leading to double rows of magnolias, the foliage of which will make the great frame for the side of the court.

To Charles Broadway Rouss is attributed the credit for having conceived the idea of the Confederate Memorial Institute. At the veterans' reunion in Houston, Tex., in 1895, Mr. Rouss offered to give $100,000 for the erection of a memorial hall if the Southern people would contribute an equal amount. The offer was accepted, a committee appointed and the committee made its report at the reunion in Richmond in 1896. The following veterans, many of whom since have died, were appointed charter members and trustees of the memorial association: Col. John B. Cary, Va.; Col. Robt. White, W. Va.; Col. Thomas S. Kenan, North Carolina; Col. B. H. Teague, S. C.; Gen. J. B. Briggs, Ky.; Gen. Clement A. Evans, Ga.; J. S. Chaleron, La.; J. B. McIntosh, Miss.; John O. Casler, Okla.; Gen. W. H. Jackson, Tenn.; Capt. John H. Mickey, Washington, D. C.; Col. W. D. Chipley, Fla.; Gen. John Gill, Md.; A. S. Asbury, Mo.; Wm. P. Campbell, Ark.; L. S. Ross, Texas; D. M. Hailey, Indian Territory; Col. A. G. Dickinson, N. Y.

The charter obtained from the state of Mississippi in August, 1896, provided that the institute should be under the auspices of the United Confederate Veterans. Richmond was selected as the location for the memorial in 1897.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Wilmington Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains nad dangers of kidney ills, will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Wilmington citizen says:

C. W. Hollowbush, director of Academy of Music, E. Market St. Road, Wilmington, says: "I was about to give up, as I was in such a bad fix with my kidneys. My back ached and throbbed so that I could hardly endure it. When I got down to pick up anything, I couldn't straighten without a great deal of pain. My kidneys didn't act regularly. The kidney secretions contained sediment, were painful and highly colored. I felt bad all over. I doctored and tried different medicines, but got no better. Finally, I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at L. B. Sasser's Drug Store, and I had only taken part of a box, when I noticed a great change in my condition. I kept on using them and when I had finished two boxes, my back felt as sound as ever, my kidneys acted regularly, and, in every way, I felt like a different man."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mr. Hollowbush had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WINSTON-SALEM MAN SAVED FROM DEATH

J. E. Erwin Says Wonderful Remedy Brought Him Astonishing Relief.

J. E. Erwin of Winston-Salem, N. C., was for a long time the victim of serious disorders of the stomach. He tried all kinds of treatment and had many doctors.

One day he took a dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and was astonished at the results. The help he sought had come. He wrote:

"I am satisfied through personal use of the life-saving powers of your Wonderful Remedy. You have saved my life. I could have lived but a few weeks more had it not been for your remedy. I am inclosing a list of friend sufferers who ought to have some of your remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

EVENTS OF A WEEK IN AND ABOUT LUMBERTON

Graded School Commencement Exercises This Week

Mr. Herbert McClammy to Deliver Address—Sermon Today—Mr. Rollins Quits the Road—Death of Mr. Milton Lytch.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., May 29.—This section has had its share of changeable weather during the past week, with a good deal of rain, yesterday being classed as a "rainy day" sure enough. Part of the week has been cool enough to make fire comfortable, while part of it has been warm enough to be uncomfortable. The ground has been in good condition for transplanting all kinds or plants where it was not too wet to plow.

The closing exercises of the Lumberton graded school will begin tomorrow at 11 o'clock, when Rev. C. L. Greaves, the pastor, will preach the sermon at the First Baptist church, the other churches in town joining in the service. Appropriate exercises will take place during the week, and on Friday morning at 11 o'clock the literary address will be delivered by Mr. Herbert McClammy, of Wilmington. Mr. McClammy is an interesting speaker and all who can do so should hear him.

The railroads are offering extraordinary inducements to people in this section to attend the Confederate Veterans' Reunion in Richmond next week. The Seaboard will put an extra coach on train No. 19 Monday morning for the accommodation of those who take that route from here. The V. & C. S. will send out an extra coach on the 9:50 train Monday morning, which will be attached to a special Coast Line train at Hope Mills and will arrive in Richmond at 6:25 P. M. Passengers going via the Seaboard are due in Richmond at 5:05 P. M. The round trip fare is $5.65 either way.

Mr. H. T. Rollins, the veteran postal clerk on the Seaboard between Wilmington and Charlotte, made his last run yesterday, and wherever he had the opportunity along the route told old friends good-bye. On Friday, August 28, 1879, Mr. Rollins entered upon his work as postal clerk on the Seaboard, and on Friday, May 28, 1915, his labors in that capacity closed. He has been appointed transfer clerk at Hamlet, where he will reside in the future. After nearly 36 years' faithful service, Mr. Rollins retires from the road having the highest esteem of all with whom he has come in contact.

The Masonic Reception.

The reception given by the Masonic lodge Tuesday evening was an occasion of much real pleasure to many visitors, from both town and country. From 8 to 11 o'clock there was a continuous going and coming of fashionably dressed ladies and gentlemen, all apparently enjoying themselves to the fullest extent. Refreshments were served in abundance and nothing was left undone to give every visitor a good time.

There are some interesting facts connected with this lodge, which was instituted in 1847, the first worshipful master having been the late Mr. Thos. A. Norment, who died in 1869. The past masters from that down to the present have been: John A. Rowland, John McK. Alford, Robert E. Troy, Robert S. French, Eli Wishart, W. P. Moore, J. R. Carter, Dr. W. A. Dick, N. A. McLean, Sr., Dr. R. M. Norment, Alfred Rowland, W. S. Norment, Edmund McQueen, T. N. Bond, A. S. Rowland, Thos. A. Norment, Frank Gough, Q. T. Williams, C. B. Skipper, J. P. Stansel, Dr. R. T. Allen, John P. McNeill, John T. Biggs, E. J. Britt, Dr. N. A. Thompson, W. P. McAllister, Chas. P. McAllister and Jas. D. Proctor, Mr. G. E. Rancke, Jr., being the present worshipful master.

Enlarged pictures of all the past masters, except Mr. Robert E. Troy, have been procured and nicely framed. These are placed in a row on the wall and make an interesting group. The 17 named gentlemen preceding Mr. Frank Gough have passed to the Great Beyond, while Mr. Gough and all succeeding him are still living. St. Alban's Lodge, No. 114, A. F. & A. M. is one of the strong fraternal institutions of this section of the State, and is in a most flourishing condition.

Exterminating Flies.

The Star man does not know who started the movement, but the work of destroying flies in home-made traps, which are now in general use in the business part of town, is the greatest thing that has happened here in some time. There is no doubt that flies are fewer here than ever before at this time of year, and those that are here are being more rapidly exterminated than ever before.

Rev. I. W. King, of Wilmington, was a Lumberton visitor this week. He stated to your correspondent that it was his first visit to Lumberton in 40 years, and, of course, it was a new place to him. He did not see any one that he had ever known except The Star man, whom he knew in Wilmington several years ago.

In the death of Mr. Milton Lytch, which occurred at his home at Rowland this week, Robeson county loses another of its honored and most highly esteemed citizens. Mr. Lytch was 66 years old, and for the past two years or more had been an invalid. He was the father of Mrs. H. E. Stacy, of Lumberton.

Mr. N. H. Jones, Sr., who has been critically ill for several weeks past, shows little, if any, sign of improvement. His condition is such as to cause the gravest apprehension of his family and many friends. Mr. Jones is one of Lumberton's oldest and most highly esteemed citizens. For nearly 50 years he has resided here.

Mr. John Jones, engineer on the Southern Railway, with headquarters in Charleston, S. C., has been on the sick list for several days, and arrived here last night, accompanied by Mrs. Jones, who was called to Charleston on account of his illness.

That Hotel Assured.

Mr. J. M. Russell, the architect, says that with good weather the brick work on the new hotel to be erected by the Imperial Hotel Company, will soon be under good way. The company was incorporated this week, Messrs. H. H. Anderson, H. M. McAllister and T. L. Johnson being the incorporators. There will be great rejoicing when the time comes that Lumberton will have a hotel large enough to accommodate the traveling public.

Mr. Wade Hampton Kinlaw has received his commission of re-appointment as United States commissioner. Mr. Kinlaw says that during his four years' service as commissioner he has not lost a case in the Federal court, that is, the grand jury has never failed to find a true bill in a case sent up by him. He is justly proud of his record.

Mr. A. J. Holmes, of Holmes Jewelry Company, which a few days ago purchased the jewelry business of Mr. H. C. Boylin, is busy rearrranging the store. Some changes are being made in the interior, the front has been repainted and when the work is completed the place will present an inviting appearance. A new stock of jewelry will be put in. The new firm expects to open for business June 10th.

Richard Norment at Home.

Mr. Richard Norment, of the Columbia Record, who has been sick for some weeks, arrived home this week and is recuperating at the home of his mother, Mrs. Maggie Norment. His many friends sincerely hope he may be able soon to resume his work.

Sunday hours will be observed at the postoffice Monday, that day being observed as Decoration Day which falls on Sunday. The rural carriers will not go out that day, it being a legal holiday.

The R. & L. will change schedule tomorrow, in accordance with changes on the Seaboard, and after tomorrow the train will leave for Marion at 10:20 instead of 10:40, as at present. Train will arrive from Marion at 6:15 instead of 6:30.

Bethune's educational excursion, which leaves here Tuesday morning for Washington City, promises to be a big success, as a good crowd is already assured.

Monday will be the last day for tax listing, and as is generally the case there are quite a number who have overlooked the matter.

Home-grown cabbage, beans, potatoes, etc., are beginning to be plentiful, but the prices remain high.

There has been some talk of a big celebration of some kind here on July 3rd or 5th, as the 4th falls on Sunday. It is time to put the ball rolling.

MAJOR GRAHAM THE ORATOR.

For Decoration Day Exercises at Raleigh Monday.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., May 29.—Federal Decoration Day is to be right elaborately observed in Raleigh Monday with Hon. W. A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture and president of the North Carolina Confederate Veterans' Association, as the special orator. There will be a big parade and special music, the afternoon being given over to the celebration.

Major Graham has prepared a special address in which he will treat in the most impartial way possible events leading up to and during the Civil War, presenting, he says, much important and heretofore unwritten history.

TO AWARD CONTRACT MONDAY

For New Dormitory at Caswell Training School at Kinston.

Kinston, N. C., May 29.—The board of trustees of the Caswell Training school will meet at the institution here Monday afternoon to go over plans and award the contract for a new dormitory appropriated for by the last legislature. It will have a capacity for 100 children and will cost $14,000. Another smaller structure will be erected as an employes' home. The new dormitory will be the third at the school, and will be an "extra building."

ORIGINAL THIRTEEN TO BE OFFICIALLY PRESENT

Every State to be Represented at Greensboro, July 3.

Governor or Other Official of Each of Thirteen States to Attend Unveiling of Monument to General Nathaniel Greene.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., May 29.—All of the original thirteen states will be represented by their governors or other State officials at Guilford battleground on July 3, when the magnificent statue to General Nathaniel Greene and his generals will be unveiled in connection with the annual Fourth of July celebration. The company has been assured by government engineers that the statue will be completed by that date.

It is erected by an appropriation of $30,000 by the Federal government, and will be one of the most manificent memorials to be found on any of the battlefields of the country. The Guilford courthouse battlefield is the only scene of any revolutionary conflict that is preserved in its entirety. A bill is now pending in Congress to make the battlefield a public park.

The construction of the Greene monument is being done under the direction of Mr. Merritt, a representative of the government. The contract was awarded to Mr. John E. Ramsey, a consulting engineer of Salisbury.

One of the attractive features of the celebration will be thirteen young ladies on horseback to represent the 13 different states. These young ladies will be dressed in costumes with red and white striped skirts, waists of blue with white stars and Columbia caps. Each rider will bear a regalia that will bear the name of her state, and small flags of the state will decorate the bridle of the horse and the saddle blanket. These charming riders will lead the procession, and will be given a place of honor on the programme. They will be officially commissioned by the governors of the respective states.

An effort is being made to have the First North Carolina regiment here for the celebration. This idea was originated by Judge S. Glenn Brown, of this city. The matter has been taken up with Governor Craig and Adjutant General Young. The Governor is anxious to have the regiment here. With slight changes in the time for the encampment, the regiment can be brought here at practically no expense, as the regiment must pass through here on route to Morehead City.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON ATLANTIC COAST LINE

Push Truck Driven by Motor Car Wrecked

F. L. Burrows Dies at Rocky Mount and C. Williams in Extremis as Result of Accident at Smithfield—High Speed.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., May 29.—While riding on a push truck being driven at a high rate of speed by a railway motor car and at a point on the Atlantic Coast Line near Neuse river, at Smithfield, late yesterday, the car was overturned and in the smash F. L. Burrows sustained injuries from which he died early today in the Atlantic Coast Line Relief Hospital at South Rocky Mount, while C. Williams, of Falkstone, Ga., is in an extreme condition at the same hospital with his back broken.

The injured are both young men and employed by the signal department and they were at work installing the new signal devices on the double-tracking south of Selma. From the injuries it appears that both persons were run over by the first wheels of the car before it was overturned following the derailment of the pusher.

The remains of Mr. Burrows were this morning sent to his home at Vaughan where interment will take place tomorrow. The deceased was 28 years old and was unmarried. The hospital authorities have been making every effort to get in touch with the relatives of Mr. Williams, at Falkstone, Ga. There is little hope held out for his recovery.

ALARM CLOCKS ANNOY HENS

"Old Yaller" Stopped Sitting and Flew From Nest.

Farm and Fireside, the farm paper published at Springfield, Ohio, has been offering prizes for the best letters describing ways and means to discourage sitting hens. In the current issue the prize winning letters are published. First prize went to the writer of the following letter:

"Some years ago I was endeavoring to break up a sitting hen, but my efforts were in vain. 'Old Yaller' continued to sit.

"Finally, I took a small alarm clock and set it so it would go off in a few minutes. I placed it in one corner of her nest and watched. It went off. And so did 'Old Yaller.' She left the nest and stood dazed for one horrified instant and then with one squawk she ran out of the henhouse and flew over the park fence and began to hunt for bugs in the grass.

"She not only stopped sitting, but she stopped clucking, and in a short time began to lay. I have since tried this method on more than 100 broody hens with complete success."

THEATRICAL

The Paramount Program announces another premier Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company release in the noted drama, "Help Wanted," showing at the Victoria Monday.

Of all the horde the business college mills ground out and dumped bodily upon the pages of that week's Want Ads, poor little Gertie was probably the greenest of all. That was what made her employment by the owner of Scott & Son, Importers, seem peculiar, especially when he advanced her salary on sight.

But no one could tell her. She had to find out for herself that the more she was offered the more she would have to give. It all came out one night when her employer kept her after hours—with dinner for two sent up from the cafe.

She escaped, but just the same she was a lucky, lucky little girl.

Jack Lait, the author of this drama, wrote the working girl from her human side. Her pitiful hunger for joyousness even under the stress of $6 a week—her will to stay strong even though pieces of card board covered the holes in the bottoms of her little shoes—the whole pathetic fight against the conspiracy everywhere around her—that's what fairly glows through the Gertie Meyer of that consummate actress, Lois Meredith.

The Grand Theatre.

The two reel Keystone comedy "Droppington's Family Tree" is an uproarious farce comedy with Chester Conklin in the leading role. Most of the scenes take place in a cabaret where Droppington and his son fall in love with the same girl, one of the dancers. If you like good, swift comedy you will certainly get it in this special Keystone. There are no idle moments in this one, just laughs.

The Essanay special feature presents the popular Richard Travers in a detective play with a baffling crime that most spectators will find difficult to solve. This is a two-reel thriller in every sense of the word. "In the Switch Tower" is a two-reel railroad story with Walter Edwards in the leading role. Drink brings him down from an engineer of good standing to a hobo. He is cast into prison for a saloon killing, and later reported dead, his son becomes superintendent of the road and the father saves the son's special from being wrecked. The fight in the switch tower is one of the many strong scenes in this Broncho Special.

"The Corsican Brothers"—Bijou.

The Bijou is to be congratulated upon securing for showing tomorrow, the wonderful three-reel production, "The Corsican Brothers," the fillmization of Alexander Dumas' greatest and most popular novel, in which King Baggot plays the difficult double roles of Louis Dei Franchi and Fabien Dei Franchi. His artistry, one dramatic critic declared, rivals that of Mantell, Booth and Fechter, who enacted the roles on the legitimate stage years ago with such honors.

Featured with Mr. Baggot in this de luxe melodrama are Ned Readon, who plays the role of Meynard, Jane Gail, who is cast as Emilie De Lesparre, Frank Smith (Montgerion) and Hal Clarendon, who, as the moving Picture World remarked recently, is "generally recognized to be the most finished villain in the moving picture business."

It took Universal two whole months to polish off and complete this beautiful and inspiring version of the famous story for its present state of perfection, and Bijou patrons may, indeed, expect a rare treat tomorrow.

A mammoth two-reel United comedy-drama, "In Daddy's Footsteps" featuring the beautiful and gifted Ethel Grandin, will also feature tomorrow's bill, as well as a great Nestor comedy hit.

PROTECT THE BIRDS.

One Thing Parents and Teachers Should Impress on Boys.

(From the Savannah News.)

One thing parents and school teachers should impress upon the small boys, especially in the rural homes and schools, is that it is bad policy to kill birds. The first thought that comes into the average boy's mind when he sees a bird in a tree or on a fence rail or running along the ground, is to kill it.

He needs to be told, until he thoroughly understands, that a dead bird can eat no more insects and that insects, it it were not for birds, would put the farmers out of business in short order. The interview with the News with James Henry Rice, Jr., United States inspector of birds, calls attention again to the great value of insectivorous birds to the farmer and the folly of killing them.

The busy little partridge makes the potato bug skeedaddle to safer retreats and birds with a fondness for the boll weevil save cotton growers where the weevil is at work a large amount of money every year. A bird in the bush is worth several in the hand, to reverse an old saying. Let the bird stay in the bush and eat bugs and weevils and worms.

Eggs at 20 Cents a Dozen Throughout the Year

So many questions have been sent to this department, as a result of the suggestions made not long ago about "Putting Down Eggs at Home," that I am taking space today to go a little more minutely into the details of this process. Most housekeepers know that various processes of home preservation have been tried from time to time, such as putting the eggs into lime and putting them into oil.

The experiments of the Department of Agriculture and of agricultural experts throughout the country have developed the knowledge among poultry men and egg handlers everywhere, that the most satisfactory methods of preserving eggs at home is by the water glass method. Some egg handlers go so far as to voice their opinion that the water glass system will be adopted in the near future by commercial egg handlers as a substitute for the present cold storage methods of preservation and that "water glass" eggs will be as well-known a commercial product as are "cold storage" eggs.

Water glass is sodium silicate and there are various degrees and preparations of it on the market. It can be bought either in liquid form or as a powder and in either case large quantities of water must be added, the exact proportions being given on the packages or containers in which the preparation is bought. Not every form of water glass is suitable for preserving eggs and the householder must take pains to secure a preparation especially put up for this purpose.

There are a few fundamental things to remember, whatever preparation is to be used. The first of these is that the eggs should be clean. Now this does not mean that the eggs should be washed; as a matter of fact, washing an egg before putting it into water glass means spoiling it. An egg, when laid, is covered with a mucilagous coating which closes the pores of the shell and it is essential that this coating should be intact when the egg is put into the water-glass solution. For home preservation one should have eggs that were laid in clean nests and whose shells have never been soiled. Any tiny specks of dirt can be scraped or lifted off with a sharp knife blade.

The second most important thing is that the eggs should be fresh laid when they are put into the solution. No one will claim that a water glass solution will improve the egg; it simply will preserve the egg and prevent its deterioration for a considerable length of time. The best way if one wants to put down eggs in April and May when they are cheapest, is to find the name of some reliable egg producer and buy eggs from him by the case, under the guarantee that the eggs have been laid within a day or two before she receives them.

Earthen crocks are considered the best containers for preserved eggs. Eggs may also be put into galvanized pails and even into wooden tubs and casks. But wooden containers will get slimy and metal containers will be slightly corroded by the water glass, so that a discoloration takes place in the liquid, although this is said not to be harmful to the eggs.

The eggs do not have to be put down all at once. They may be added from time to time, but there should be a two-inch cover over the top egg in any container. All containers should be scalded and sterilized before this solution is put into them and the water with which the solution is mixed should be boiled and left to cool before it is mixed with the water glass.

All containers must be covered carefully after the eggs are put in. If this is not done there will be so much evaporation that the solution becomes too alkaline and will not preserve the eggs so satisfactorily. Persons living in city apartments who have no cool place in which to store the eggs, may seal them in glass jars. Eggs should be left in the solution practically up to the time they are wanted for use. Careful experiments at the agricultural stations show that eggs will keep in water-glass solution for six months in good condition, so as to be scarcely distinguishable from a fresh egg at the end of that time.

Eggs that have been preserved in water glass may be used in all ways like fresh eggs, with one exception. When they are wanted for boiling they should be pricked with a pin three or four times on the large end, so that the air may be let out. This will prevent the eggs from bursting when they are put into boiling water.

CONTEST STARTS MONDAY

Battle Between Wilmington Ladies for the Great American-Canadian Tour on in Earnest.

The Bijou-Universal California-Canadian Popularity Contest begins proper tomorrow morning when the ladies who have entered and been qualified will start their active campaign for the sale of the coupon books, and the other means which have been devised for obtaining votes. The contest will close Monday, July 18, which gives just 50 days' run.

A surprisingly small number of applications have been received, when it is taken into consideration that the grand prize—a trip of nearly nine thousand miles, visiting every point of great interest in America and Canada, is one that would not only appeal to the ordinary individual, but would appeal just as forcefully to the millionaire who would go in quest of a vacation that is worthwhile. The small number entered, it is stated by the manager, will make the race simply a "walk-over" for some lady, as they will have only a small number to work against, and will have to expand very little effort in order to land first in the final count of votes.

The manager stated yesterday that, as yet, a complete list of the sidetrips could not be furnished, as all arrangements had not yet been completed. An effort is being made not to miss a single point of interest from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and to so time the different stop overs that ample time will he allowed at the principal points, for example, at Grand Canyon, where a complete tour of the greatest wonder of America, will be made, at Colorado Springs, where the tour will be up Pike's Peak and to the "Garden of the Gods," and so on throughout the whole itinerary.

It may well be said that the lady who takes this trip will thereafter be posted upon all that is wonderful, beautiful and stupendous in this land of ours, besides taking the newest brand of "trip around the world," (since the European war has been on) by taking in the sights of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, at San Francisco, and the San Diego Industrial Expositio, at San Diego, Cal.

Besides this, another attractive feature is the ride of several hundred miles up the beautiful Pacific as far as Portland, Oregon, which will furnish an insight into all the wonderful mountains of the Northwestern part of the United States, which are out of the tourist line of travel on account of the extreme cold. The extended trip, of two thousand miles, through the Canadian Rockies is another feature not embraced often even in the most extended tours.

A large advertisement elsewhere in today's Star announces that, while the application books will probably remain open all the coming week only ten more ladies are desired, and that the privilege is reserved to close them as soon as this number of additional contestants is secured. They further announce that, in order that applicants coming in Monday be given an equal start with all others, their applications will be passed upon immediately, without recourse to the Charlotte manager of the tour. This privilege has been granted them for tomorrow only, and it is probable that there will be a rush tomorrow morning to get in among the finel ten, by those, who, for one reason or another have hesitated thus far.

Mr. Bain, the manager of the Bijou contest, was very closely identified with the great popularity contest by The Star some years ago, and this will insure all contestants that the affair will be handled capably and with absolute fairness to all.

FOREIGN CAPITAL SEEKING SAFETY IN UNITED STATES

$150,000,000 of Europeans' Gold and Securities Deposited in New York Vaults—Record Breaking Strawberry Shipments Received—Art Museum Furnishes Ideas for Fashion Makers—Sea-Going School.

New York, May 29.—Not less than $150,000,000—possibly as much as $350,000,000—in tangible wealth has been transferred to the United States by European owners since war began to threaten in June of last year, according to a member of one of the leading international banking houses here. While it is impossible to estimate with any accuracy the extent of such funds, the banker in question based his opinion upon the amount that has been handled by his own firm and by his knowledge of the extent of foreign business handled by other leading houses in the same line.

This flood of incoming wealth began to make its way to this side of the Atlantic before the actual outbreak of hostilities, and has continued in varying volume ever since. Some of it is in the form of gold, more of it is in standard securities or in American currency received from the sale of such securities. Apparently the owners, who comprise representatives of practically every old-world country, feel that under present conditions America is the safest place for valuables of this description. There has been gossip to the effect that several European rulers and members of the royal families have deposited large amounts here against the possibility of unpleasant results arising from the war. Such stories cannot be confirmed, but it is known that many very wealthy Europeans now have a part of their fortunes deposited in this country. While the greater part of the enormous aggregate of wealth which has sought the United States for safe-keeping is likely to be withdrawn at the conclusion of peace, it is the opinion of most well-informed bankers that a goodly proportion of it will remain here and will seek American investment. This movement of stored-up capital to this country, added to the enormous purchases of American goods for European account and the re-sale of American securities formerly owned in Europe, is regarded as an influential factor in hastening the transformation of the United States from a debtor to a creditor nation, and in giving New York a position of far greater importance than ever before in the field of international finance.

Styles From Art Museum.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in this city through a newly arranged textile exhibit is helping to make this country independent of Europe for its styles. The exhibit has attracted designers of cloaks, suits and gowns, and of materials as well, who are seeking new fields for ideas and suggestions for the coming fashions. While Paris is still acknowledged as the metropolis of modes, the European war has affected conditions to such an extent that the American manufacturer of feminine apparel is forced to look about him on this side of the Atlantic and to seek his inspirations from fabrics both old and new. To this end the museum has issued bulletins which inform all persons interested in the study, manufacture or sale of textiles as to the help which it may be able to afford them. Designers for some of the largest silk, lace and other textile houses in the country have taken advantage of the opportunity presented by this action of the museum, and one silk house has produced a Genoese cut velvet very much like the famous old pattern. The museum has at the service of manufacturers and artisans a special study room where duplicate specimens of textiles and small pieces may be handled. These are mounted on heavy linen stretched on walnut frames of uniform size. In addition to the study collection, there are many thousands of specimens on public view, dating from prehistoric times to the present. Linen weaves from the Coptic tombs of Egypt, silks from ancient Alexandria, rich fabrics from the Orient, Italian velvets and French brocades may be seen in numerous examples. In the costumes department there are beautiful fabrics, as well as many fine dresses of the first quarter of the 19th century, and bonnets and shoes of the same period.

Sea-Going School.

The New York State Nautical Schoolship Newport started several days ago on what will be the longest voyage she has ever undertaken. Aboard the ship are 103 cadets whom the state of New York is training to be officers of American vessels. The cruise which has just begun will probably cover 15,400 miles. Approximately 53 days will be passed at sea. In former years the cadets were taken across the Atlantic, but due to conditions abroad a new cruise was planned. The first port touched will be St. Thomas, in the Dutch West Indies. From there the Newport will proceed via the Panama Canal to the Pacific, where she will steer for the Hawaiian Islands, with Honolulu as a destination. On the return trip the Newport will stop at San Francisco, and the cadets will visit the San Diego and Panama expositions. On September 12 it is expected the vessel will again pass through the Panama Canal and will steam up the coast to New London, Conn. There she will be inspected and examinations of the students will be held, after which she will return to her berth and the graduation exercises will be held. The captain and all the officers with the exception of the chief officer and the chief engineer are graduates of the school ship.

Strawberry Festival.

New Yorkers are enjoying a strawberry festival on an unprecedented scale as is evidenced by the fact that during the past week all previous records for a day's receipts of this fruit were broken. One hundred and sixty carloads of berries were received from North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. Each car averaged 325 crates. Figured in quarts, this would make 1,100,000, or sufficient to supply each person in Greater New York with one-half a pint. The berries were excellent in quality and the wholesale price low, ranging from 3 to 7 cents a quart. At an average price of five cents a quart, the value of this one shipment amounted to $55,000. The New Jersey crop is soon expected on the market, and while the crop is expected to be of only normal proportions, it is believed that there will be sufficient to more than meet the requirements of the residents of this city. Provision merchants complain that unscrupulous hucksters use the Board of Health to extort refunds from them. If a huckster is able to buy berries cheap and does not sell all of them, he frequently goes back to the merchant, and unless the price paid for the fruit is refunded, he threatens to go to the board of health with the poor quality of the berries, caused largely by his peddling them about the streets of the city for a day, and in this way has the board of health condemn the berries and perhaps prosecute the wholesaler.

GIRL OFFERED TO TIGER

Hindu Woman Describes Night of Terror in India.

(From the Washington Post.)

To an interested congregation that filled the Metropolitan Baptist church, Mrs. Suhkoda Banerjee, a Hindu, now engaged in missionary work in this country, related her experiences in her native land and the causes which led her to renounce the religion of her forefathers and embrace the Christian faith.

Mrs. Banerjee is a Hindu of the highest caste, whose parents went to extremes in the pursuit of thier religious beliefs. At the age of 9 years, rather than have her lose caste in refusing to marry in her own station of life, she was given in marriage. In time she became the mother of two daughters, a fact which caused no end of annoyance, not only to her own parents, but those of her husband.

As is the custom in that country, a clairvoyant was consulted, who paid the young wife a visit, and in his characteristic way informed her and her relatives that it was not to fall to her lot to bring a son into the world; that all her children would be females. Keen disappointment at this news was evident, and it was decreed that she should be fed to the tigers abounding in that section of the country. One night, after a tearful parting, she was placed in a sedan chair and carried to a jungle, where it was expected the tigers would soon devour her.

In a state of terror she waited the night through, every rustling of the reeds causing her to start and cry in terror. But the welcome daylight made its appearance, and she made her way to the nearest highway.

She was found thoroughly exhausted by a Hindu woman of a low caste, a caste which worshipped the high caste of Mrs. Benerjee. Falling prostrate at the feet of the young wife, she was bidden to rise, and her aid was implored, with the result that Mrs. Banerjee was quickly removed from danger and taken to a strange habitation, from which she eventually made her way to Calcutta, where she renounced the faith of her fathers, and thanked God for her deliverance. Since that time Mrs. Banerjee has engaged in missionary work, being especially active in caring for child widows of her own nationality, saving them from the lives of immorality they are forced to lead by the native clergymen attached to the various temples in India.

In all, Mrs. Banerjee says she has rescued 1,050 young widows who have been cast aside by their relatives. It is her aim, she said, to secure sufficient funds in this country to enable her to build a house of refuge in Calcutta, where these unfortunates can be cared for properly and converted to Christianity.

LACE WORTH $8,000.

Bit in Signora Arrigoni Collection is Only 2 1-2 Yards Long.

(New York Times.)

In the Ehrich Gallery, 707 Fifth avenue, is a bit of lace that is valued at $8,000. There is only a little of it—about two yards and a half—which makes the price a little more than $3,000 a yard. It is the "clou" of the collection of the rare antique laces dating from the 16th to the 18th centuries, belonging to Signora J. Arrigoni of Milan, which will be on view until the end of the month.

This particular piece of lace is what is known as "Roasline" point, with raised bunches of flowers in the design. It dates from the 18th century. It is three and a half inches wide. In all there are about 125 pieces shown. There is a piece of Venetian lace a little more than four yards long, about four inches wide, which is valued at $7,000; another slightly shorter, and of the same width, which is said to be worth the same figure.

Bedspreads of drawn-and-cut work, shawls, needlepoint laces and many designs and periods, bobbin laces, scarfs, tablecloths, baby caps—in fact a wide range of such work collected by Signora Arrigoni during a lifetime, are in the collection.

RISKS OF RAPID TIMES

Jitneys Might Make New York Subway a City Cellar.

(From Life.)

The crowding of the trolley lines by the jitneys suggests the approach of the time when, because of the incessant introduction of new conveniences, investment in public utilities will become too risky for private capital. It is still to be seen whether in the long run jitneys can compare with trolley lines, but if they can, it is a case of invasion of private investment by a new development in mechanics.

An immense investment is now being made in underground railroads in New York. It is wise, and indeed indispensable, so far as anyone can see, but something that no one imagines at present, any more than trolley investors of 20 years ago imagined the Ford factory, may make a mere cellar of the whole underground system. But the city would benefit by something better than tubes, and could stand, as no one else could, the loss of its subterranean investment.

READS FRANCE'S FUTURE.

Disagreement Without Hate, Argument Without Discord.

(From Literary Digest.)

Eugene Brieux, in a recent article in the Paris Temps, anticipates the obvious question as to whether the French people will forget all their differences and live in complete accord after the war.

He thinks not; but he believes that a great improvement in their political affairs will ensue and that his compatriots will understand better how there can be disagreement without hate and argument without insult.

He does not expect them, however, to become "calm as statues." "By her geographical situation and because of the races that gave it being as a nation, France is destined to agitation. And agitation may be fruitful, while immobility never is."

KIONEY TROUBLE CAUSES INTENSE SUFFERING

Sixteen years ago I was taken sick with Kidney trouble and suffered terribly for three months. I did not work during this time and was mostly confined to the bed. After using other remedies I finally tried a bottle of Swamp-Root. I immediately began to feel better, and after using seven fifty-cent bottles, was entirely cured and have had no Kidney trouble since. I can truly say that I owe my good health to Swamp-Root. You may publish this letter for the benefit of other people afflicted as I was with the hope of bringing to their attention this most wonderful remedy.

Yours very truly,

HATTIE A. QUIMBY,

"THE CALL OF FOREIGN MISSIONS FOR MONEY, MEN AND PRAYERS." Haggai 2:4-9.

In this passage the prophet, speaking for God, is picturing the great things that are coming to pass in the world. He is calling upon certain men to do a certain thing and promising that the result shall be that men from all nations and the best of all nations shall be gathered together for the glory of God. He is making the claim of God that all silver belongs to him, and all gold; that all the wealth of the world is God's, and as such He has the right to expect that men shall use it for Him. The lesson is well adapted for the subject, "The Call of Foreign Missions for Money, Men and Prayers."

The call of Foreign Missions today is the biggest of the calls that is before the church. The business of the Church is Missions, whether it be Home Missions or Foreign Missions. There is really no division between these two branches of mission work except the territorial division. All the work of the Church is mission work. Some of the mission work is done at home; some of it is done in foreign lands, and for convenience in handling, men have divided the two, and called one branch of the work "Home Missions," and the other branch of the work "Foreign Missions," but the work is the same in nature and purpose, and ought to be the same in successful accomplishment on the part of the Church.

The entire call of the Foreign Mission work may very well be summed up under the three heads of this topic. The call is for money, for men, and for prayers. The work cannot be done without men. The men cannot be sent without money. The men and the money are powerless unless we have prayers to God that He will make successful the work of the men that is made possible by the gift of the money. These three things combined together can accomplish the work of the Church, and accomplish it speedily. If every individual member of the Church would feel the same call of Missions he would find himself able to answer in one of these three things: Either he himself would go, furnishing one of the workers, or he would send someone else by his means, or if he had not the means, he would, through his prayers, enable others to do the work, or send the workers.

Not everyone can be a missionary among the heathen, preaching to them, but all the home-land can be interceding for them. Repeatedly have we heard those from the firing line, and those directly in touch say, that high above the need of men and money is the call for prayers.

Experience has repeatedly shown us that the believing prayer of one humble intercessor at home can bring about a revival on the foreign field and save thousands. One missionary has said that as "What are your marching orders, sir?" far as man can see the results he was able to do more for the heathen toiling as an intercessor in America than while he was among the heathen without intercessors pleading for him.

People who say they do not believe in foreign missions are usually quite unconscious of the indictment they bring against their own spiritual experience. The man who has no religion of his own that he values of course is not interested in the effort to make it known to others.

There is no gainsaying or mistaking the command "Go," when we consider the Person who gave it. It is the weightiest of utterances. It is not a request; not a suggestion. It leaves nothing to our choice. It is an order, clear, peremptory, imperative—"Go."

Employers cry that they cannot obtain trained help. They mean men who have the work at heart. The Church needs men who are trained as fishers of men, who will go to strange lands, with strange surroundings and customs; who will defy opposition, and with a loving heart bring the Gospel of Christ to the needy.

Man is inherently selfish. Nothing gives as much pleasure and nothing is so seldom indulged in as giving. A true sacrifice always rewards the giver The Church needs money and God calls men to make money honestly for it. Our money is our time, our talent, ourselves stored. When we give our money we are giving ourselves.

We are told that if each Christian in the United States would give one cent a week for missions, it would amount to $10,000,000 per year. If each gave a postage stamp, it would mean $20,000,000. If they gave a carfare per week they would give $50,000,000, and if each would give a dish of ice cream it would amount to $100,000,000. No one has a right to say they cannot reasonably give.

A poor blind woman in Paris put 27 francs into a plate at a missionary meeting. "You cannot afford so much," said one. "Yes, sir; I can," she answered. On being pressed to explain, she said: "I am blind, and I said to my fellow straw workers, 'How much money do you spend in a year for oil in your lamps when it is too dark to work nights?' They replied, 'Twenty-seven francs'."

"So," said the poor woman, "I found that I save so much in the year because I am blind and do not need a lamp, and I give it to shed light to the dark heathen lands."

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson X.—Second Quarter, For June 6, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Sam. xi, 22 to xii, 7a—Memory Verses, xii, 5, 6, 7a. Golden Text, Ps. li, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Instead of assigning us a helpful lesson, such as chapter viii, which we briefly touched upon in our last, or the beautiful story of David's kindness to the son of Jonathan (chapter ix), the committee has given us in this lesson one of the worst phases of the human heart, which is always and only deceitful above all things and desperately wicked (Jer. xvii, 9, 10). He who alone knows and can search the heart has caused this and all similar records to be written that we might see more clearly that all are sinners and that there is none righteous—no, not one—but that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners and that the greatest sinner may be saved and the greatest backslider forgiven and restored. To find such a development of our sinful human nature in such a man as David after all that the Lord had done for him is truly humiliating and should lead us all to say, "Woe is me!" for who is there to whom the prophet might not say concerning this or some other phase of our sinful nature, "Thou art the man" (xii, 7).

When we remember that "the thought of foolishness is sin" and that a sinful look is in the sight of God equal to a sinful act (Prov. xxiv, 9; Matt. v, 28) and that, as C. H. Spurgeon said, "Whatever the Lord Jesus Christ would not think or say or do is sin," it leads one to cry out, "God be merciful to me, a sinner," and to say, "If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand?" (Luke xviii, 13; Ps. cxxx, 3, 4.) But the comfort is that He can make the vilest whiter than snow (Ps. li, 7). It is interesting to note that, while the child yet lived, David fasted and wept and lay all night upon the earth, for he said, "Who can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?" But when the child died and the will of God was known then he said: "Wherefore should I fast? Can I bring him back again? I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me" (verses 15-23). When those dear to us are sick and we cannot tell what the will of God is for them and us it becomes us to wait earnestly upon Him for their health, but always in submission to His will. When He has made plain His will, whatever it may be, it becomes us to say, "Even so, Father," for we know that "as for God, His way is perfect" (Matt. xi, 26; Ps. xviii, 30). In verses 24, 25, we have the two names of Bathsheba's next child, Solomon and Jedidiah. The latter, as in the margin, signifies "beloved of the Lord," for the Lord loved him and sent by the hand of Nathan to name him. The Lord called him Solomon before he was born, saying to David, "Behold, a son shall be born to thee who shall be a man of rest, * * * and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days" (I Chron. xxii, 9). He said, "His name shall be Solomon," which, according to the margin, means "peaceable." There are just seven men in the Bible story who were named before they were born—five in the Old Testament and two in the New Testament. Find the others and consider them. Let us give the rest of our time to the very suggestive story of Mephibosheth in chapter ix.

When David came to the kingdom he made inquiry for any who might be living of the house of Saul that he might show them kindness for Jonathan's sake. He found that there was a son of Jonathan who was lame on both feet, his nurse having let him fall when he was five years old as she took him up to flee with him at the time of his father's death (II Sam. iv, 4). His being lame because of the fault of another reminds us that the whole race is lame on both feet because Adam let us all fall. He was at this time at Lo-debar, which signifies no pasture, and that is where all sinners are. His name also signifies the condition of every sinner. David sent to where he was and brought him into his presence, and Mephibosheth fell on his face and did reverence. So the sinner when brought face to face with the Saviour (that is by faith) feels like saying, as Peter did when overwhelmed with loving kindness, "I am a sinful man, O Lord" (Luke v, 8). David's restoring to him all that he had forfeited because of Saul reminds us that all we lost in Adam and more is given back to us in Christ and all in grace for His name's sake.

How beautiful to see Mephibosheth dwelling in Jerusalem and eating continually at the king's table, even though he continued lame on both his feet (ix, 13). Every saved sinner is privileged to dwell by faith in Jerusalem, City of Peace, and to feast upon the good things provided by the king, but while we stay in these mortal bodies we will never get over our lameness, but will have to say to the end, "I know that in me—that is, in my flesh—dwelleth no good thing" (Rom. vii, 18). Some believers seem to take pleasure in talking of their lameness, their love is cold, their faith is weak, they are this and that and very miserable sinners. Better far to keep their lameness out of sight and enjoy and talk of the king's bounty.

MOSTLY CONTEMPLATIVE

By T. W. CHAMBLISS.

Some men are gifted with aspirations; others lack and there are those who appear to have been born to be saints—to those the religious life seems smooth. There are others to whom the life is all trial and a whole world of passions keep a continual strife within. For these it is a hard fight, a constant contest, from the cradle to the grave, and even with the constant effort it seems that they cannot hold their ground.

Circumstances surround some that seem a very hot-bed for the culture of righteousness, while with others religious life seems well night impossible. The soul tested by temptation is like iron tried by weights, its strength is told by the load it will lift without breaking. No soul is absolutely impeccable. There are social conditions among which many are compelled to live daily in which the very idea of Christian rest is negatived as there are occupations in which purity of heart can hardly be conceived. There are sieges of temptation to which many are exposed that seem to demand—not a man's strength but an angel's power.

The fact is that life for the most part is a varied trial—how to lead the life divine, surrounded by temptations from within and without — how to breathe freely the atmosphere of heaven while the feet yet touch the earth—how to lead the life of Christ, who took the temptations of man's life as they came, or how to make permanent strength out of momentary weakness and victory out of defeat—that is the problem.

The possibility of such a life is guaranteed by the incident of Zaccheus—a little story recorded and kept through the centuries for man's encouragement, the story that is told in a few verses of the Gospel by Luke, chapter 19. Zaccheus was tempted much and yet Zaccheus contrived to become a servant of God. Two-fold hindrance confronted Zaccheus. His wealth was one hindrance. His profession was another. Zaccheus was a man of money and Zaccheus was the official tax gatherer. His profession exposed him to temptation in three ways. There was the opportunity. The publican, who was the Roman tax gatherer, paid so much to the government for the privilege of collecting the public imposts and then appropriated to his own use whatever overplus he could gather from the collections. This was a temptation to oppress and overcharge.

There was another temptation in the idea of being satisfied with a low morality. In heaven the standard of right or wrong is unchangeable eternally, but on earth it is perpetually variable, it is one thing with one age, with one nation and another with another. Each profession has its conventional morality, current nowhere else—and in each case comes the temptation to live satisfied with the standard of our own profession or society; and this is the difference between the worldly man and the religious man. In Zaccheus' profession the standard of morals was low, little was generally expected of a publican, and here again he was tempted to that hardness in evil which comes from having no reputation to support. The extent to which sin hardens often depends on the estimate taken of the sin by society. To stigmatize is to ruin—to take away character is to take away all. This, then, was a temptation arising out of Zaccheus' circumstances, to become quite hardened by having no character to support. He had done wrong and no four-fold restitution will undo that, where remorse only exists. There is great difference between remorse and penitence. Remorse is the consciousness of wrong-doing with no sense of love. Penitence is that same consciousness with the feeling of tenderness and gratefulness added, also an earnest desire to be forgiven.

Past guilt is a hindrance because it makes fresh sin easier. The first act of guilt makes one shudder with the horror of it, the second time there was faint reluctance made more faint by the recollection of the pleasantness of the former transgression, and the last time there is neither shudder nor reluctance but an eager plunge down the precipice on the brink of which we trembled once. A publican had lost self-respect and therefore sin was easy.

There is, however, the possibility of triumph over the hindrances. Here is God's part and man's part. In the story of Zaccheus is shown man's part in the discovery of expedients. Jesus came to Jericho and this publican desired to see the blessed countenance of the Man-Saviour. It appeared that the very look of Jesus shed peace upon restless spirits. Small of stature—Zaccheus recognized that, in the midst of a great crowd of people, he would be unable to see the Gracious Visitor. Zaccheus runs ahead, climbs the tree—not the result of curiosity—but rather the "pursuit of knowledge under difficulties."

The man in earnest—Zaccheus was in earnest—must invent peculiar means of getting over peculiar difficulties. There are times when it is necessary to climb over the crowd of difficulties between your soul and Christ. You may be on the point of seeing Him and be shut out by some unexpected hindrance. Earnest men must be men of inventive mind. Men of initiative.

Zaccheus was touched—deeply touched by the very sight of Jesus. His resolution—"Lord, I give half of my goods to feed the poor. If I have taken anything from any man by fale accusation, I restore him four-fold." This may have been a statement of the past, which Zaccheus knew was not believed by the men about him, but which he felt would be understood by Jesus. It may have been a result of sorrow for his past harshness and misdeeds forced upon him by the love of Jesus—the signal of repentance and reparation. Zaccheus may have been maligned by those who did not know, when after the standard of the time he had striven to lead a righteous life, or it may be that, touched by the tenderness of Jesus, he determines immediately to proclaim his intention of righting the wrongs already committed.

What Zaccheus did was the man's part. Jesus does the God part. Jesus said—This day I must abide at thy house—Jesus knew the heart of the man. Salvation came to that man's house that day through the divine love and understanding of the Divinest Man. It matters not which interpretation is placed on the words of Zaccheus—the love of Jesus led the publican to surmount all hindrances and declare his faithful resolve and declare it before Jesus and the assembled throng.

What was true of Zaccheus may be true of every one who reads this message.

RIPPLED basques, rippled skirts, rippled tunics—there you have the dominant style note of the autumn fashions. Even rippled drop skirts are occasionally seen in some new models, though this seems rather tentative, so far.

In tailored suits and coats the ripples are formed by the material, which is cut circular. Broadcloth, velvet or fur, of which outdoor garments are fashioned, hang in beautful godets when cut this way.

Afternoon suits of taffeta or satin often have, instead of the circular ripple, tunics made of straight breadths of material. These breadths are pleated or gathered into the belt and are so full they look like Dutch peasant skirts. Pleated tunics look best on stout women, for they can be pressed or caught down over the hips without losing any of the necessary width about the hem required by the new modes.

Five yards is none too wide for the new long skirt tunic. A yard and a half is enough for a drop skirt, which shows but little and sometimes not at all. When it is invisible the tunic still remains its usual length, which means that it becomes an extra short skirt. This is what makes it different from the full skirt style of a decade ago. You will remember how they trailed on the ground all around. This new full skirt is so short that it often shows the ankles. With its swaying fulness and its distance from the ground it has an immense amount of style, whether the drop skirt shows or not. If the drop skirt is of lace or of chiffon, finely accordion pleated, it often gets entangled about the ankles and makes the wearer look as if she were wearing pantalettes. In other new dresses the drop skirt and tunic, though of the same length, are of different thicknesses. The drop skirt may be of satin while the outer tunic is of tulle or chiffon.

The satin skirt, as I have already said, is narrower than the outer one of tulle. Rows of satin or velvet ribbon placed above the hem allow this outer skirt to stand out all around in delightful ripples.

Sometimes the drop skirt has the fulness drawn toward the back by an invisible elastic band placed at about knee depth. This makes the drop skirt look narrow in front yet takes away the tube-like look.

One is not obliged to wear these long tunic skirts. Ruffled skirts are quite as modish in Paris. In thin stuffs they seem to be preferred. Any number of ruffles may be used—from two to seven or eight. They are not placed any higher up on the skirt than just below the hips, for with all the added skirt fulness there is no extra width as yet around the hips.

The basque waist on moyenage lines is so well known in New York it hardly needs more comment. It has been very much in vogue all summer and a simple model is sold in the New York shops for as low as $15. The more extreme styles of basque finish in a godet peplum or are very short, with a tendency to dip in the back a bit. Set in sleeves is another peculiarity of the ultra models, though they often have an enlarged armhole that sometimes encroaches on the basque. The joining is covered with a piped cord of the basque material. Sleeves, too, are often of another material—for instance, of the velvet or satin of the drop skirt.

A wide sash or belt lengthens the waist line in many new dress models. This is swathed so as to accentuate the contour of the figure from the waist to the hips. It may end in a butterfly bow, fringed ends, or simply wound round and round, the ends tucking in under.

Such a sash is placed on one o the Paris gowns pictured here. The hip sash is of gold bead passementerie and holds on the tunic of ochre colored silk, which, pulled a little above it at the top, makes a ruffled frill. The under ruffle, of accordion pleated tulle, is one of those drop skirts that, when dancing or walking, create the illusion of pantalettes.

The dancing gown of black tulle and jet, though it has a high waist line, gets a lengthened effect by the long swinging tassels. This tunic and underskirt also shows the relative proportions of a long tunic and drop skirt, as well as the decided shortness of the present dancing frocks.

Two ruffled gowns are pictured, one a morning frock of taffeta, with three little discreet ruffles. It is buttoned down the front, as so many of the daytime gowns are now. The other, from a recent French play, is a charming dancing gown for either afternoon or evening. The square beads give a very original and decorative touch of color, and a peculiarity of the ruffles is that they are fluted instead of accordion pleated.

Most of the new cape models hang from a yoke as in the lovely evening capes shown in the two views. This model has a very deep yoke that is gathered in about the neck, shaping it about the shoulders. The cape fulness is held in by another wide band below. From here the cape fulness, unshackled, spreads into a full ruffle. There are little slashes for the arms to pass, embroidered with the kind of beads that are used for the band embroideries. The long rope like strand of beads edging the neck and falling with tasselled ends in front is the only closing.

The absolute lack of buttons or other means of fastening on most of the evening coats and many of the new fur models is peculiarly French. The Parisian knows the asthetic value of these garments wrapped about the figure, slipping from the shoulders and caught by the hands in coquettish gesture.

Costumes for Bathing

IF a woman is pretty, well made, and—if she dare—tights are charming for the shore, and delightful to swim in, but many who possess a thousand graces and physical charms do not dare, and they prefer a costume less indiscreet.

The material used should be specially chosen. Woollen serge or parasol silk and some kinds of satin may be utilized. The dark shades are always the best, both from the point of view of wear and of becomingness.

The tunic-blouse coming to the knees and hiding the knickerbockers is always the form employed. With the striped materials the different ways of arranging the stripes—horizontally or vertically—constitute the trimming, with white collar and cuffs and a white scarf knotted on the side.

The sleeves are very short. Woollen Cluny lace is used also to trim the more dressy bathing costumes, and it has the advantage of being very firm, with good wearing qualities.

The coiffure and the fancy bath dress give an original note to the toilette, and these details are often so pretty that the fair bathers linger upon the beach before plunging into the briny depths.

It is certain that the effect before the bath is always more flattering than after. The colored peignoirs are the newest. They are oftenest made of towelling, with borders stamped in floral designs, sometimes of two shades. Those made of soft thick flannel in rose color or blue, with revers of white and bound with ribbon, are both elegant and practical.

How to Give the Proper Pitch and Volume to the Speaking Voice

By Maryon Martin.

WE have all felt the charm of a beautiful speaking voice and secretly desired to become the possessor. How often it is the voice that attracts or repels before we have had any other opportunity to form our judgment!

The American woman's speaking voice is as full of possibilities as she has proved her singing voice to be, but, unfortunately, it does not as a rule receive either the time or attention necessary to produce the best results.

If proper care is bestowed upon the child's voice it will naturally follow that the adult's voice will attain its full maturity in both beauty and strength of tone, but faults ignorantly formed may be overcome with proper care and attention.

The ever increasing noise of traffic is one of the most common factors in producing the shrill, thin tones so often heard. A nervous desire to be heard above prevailing sounds forces the voice beyond its natural limit and destroys the quality of tone in exactly the same way as an overstrain in the singing voice would do.

It is not usually known that a low tone of voice will be heard to much better advantage in a confusion of sounds such as produced in the subway trains than if you try to talk above the average high pitched note, only to find your voice has become entirely submerged, being unequal to the effort of coming out on top. Don't try to do this. Talk in a low tone and you will be heard without effort either on your part or that of your listener.

The average speaking voice is usually pitched far too high for richness of tone and depth of quality, which cannot be produced upon an unnaturally high pitch.

Test the pitch of your voice by using the piano and find the corresponding dominating note your voice is attuned to, then try the effect of lowering the pitch by striking a lower note on the piano and talking down to it. It is very probable you will find your voice capable of many more modulations on the lower pitch and much more expressive in every way. A fuller, richer quality will gradually creep into it that will fully repay you for your trouble.

Another fault which is most common is trying to produce words and tone without using the muscles intended for that express purpose.

Allowing the upper lip to remain stiff while speaking gives a very strange expression to the mouth and an indistinct utterance decidedly lacking in the essentials of cultured speech. A conscious effort to focus the voice forward will bring the lip muscles into active service and throw the tone upon the natural resonators, the teeth.

Unfortunately, as children we discover the telling effect of nasal quality and consequently misuse a power of great value if used properly, but most disagreeable and trying when allowed to have full sway in the production of the voice.

Reading aloud to one's self, preferably before a mirror, is a splendid way to discover pet faults. When you have formed the habit of listening critically to yourself train your eyes to assist you also by watching out for any tenseness of muscles. For instance, stiffness of your jaw muscles would materially mar your efforts and must be overcome to insure a perfect production of tone.

Just place your fingers upon the muscles of the jawbone that swing it up and down and from side to side. See if you can quickly and easily alternate the two movements. If not, the muscles need to be practised continually until they move quite freely.

Exercise. Six movements moving the jaw up and down as far as possible. Then six movements, reversing the action and swinging it sideways as if from ear to ear. This will prove effective and you will be surprised how the freedom thus obtained will relieve the throat from any sense of tiredness or hoarseness in continued speaking or reading.

When you fully realize the added charm of an attractive speaking voice and know that it lies in your power to conserve its beauty and quality you will gladly give the necessary time and attention to obtain what it is really your right to possess—a soft, melodious speaking voice.

Odd Veil Caprice

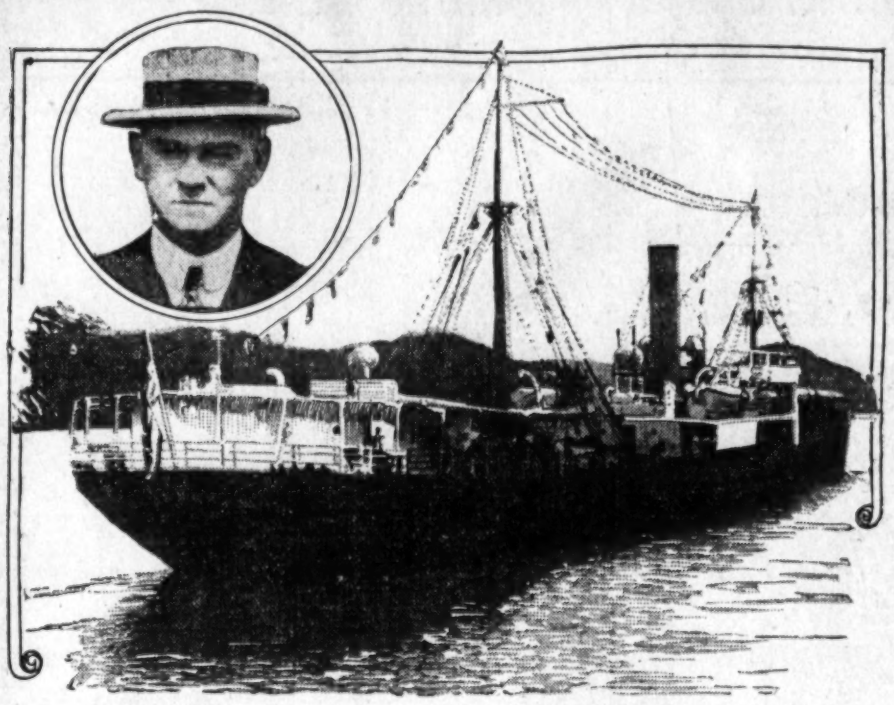
Some smart women are wearing the veil only over the eyes. It is more odd than pretty, for the face is cut in two by a dark line. In any case, the tulle must be very fine. Of course, it is only a whim of the moment, but none the less amusing on that account.

Children's Hats Simple

CHILDREN'S hats are being made as simple as possible. The big shapes are generally very becoming to young faces. Wreaths of tiny flowers and garlands of cherries or of apple blossoms with which are mixed little apples make delightful trimmings for children's hats. Wide hats in printed linen are also very charming and becoming, but these have very little trimming. A ribbon rosette, a single large flower, or black velvet strings crossed in the front after the fashion of the Auvergne hats, are the most usual form of trimming for this style.

For very little babies delicious frocks are made of tulle trimmed with fine soutache braid, which are extremely pretty.

First American Ship to Pass Panama Canal Victim of Explosion Off Irish Coast.



Capetain J. S. Green. The Nebraskan.

The Nebraskan, the first ship to go through the Panama Canal, was the victim of a torpedo or mine off the coast of Ireland, Tuesday, May 25. The photograph here shown of the vessel was taken as she went through the canal in gala array. She was struck while about forty miles southwest of Fastnet, Ireland, and, down at the bow, she started back to Queenstown.

When the vessel left San Francisco in August for her trip through the Panama Canal there was much ceremony. The mayor christened her for the trip.

She is an American built, American owned, and American manned vessel. She was launched at Camden, N. J., in 1902, for the American-Hawaiian Line. She is of 4,409 tons gross, 160 feet long, and 46 feet beam.

The Nebraskan left New York for Liverpool on May 7, with a general cargo, under charter to the Atlantic Transport Line, for one voyage. She discharged her cargo and on May 24 left Liverpool in ballast for the Delaware capes.

The charter to the Atlantic Transport Line expired when the Nebraskan delivered her cargo in Liverpool. Even though she might have taken munitions of war to England on her eastward voyage she was strictly an American ship, in ballast, bound for an American port when she was damaged. Before the war the Nebraskan plied between New York and Hawaii.

NEW ENTERPRISES IN SOUTH

Industrial and Other Developmental Undertakings Reported in Manufacturers Record.

Among the many Southern industrial and other developmental enterprises reported in the current issue of the Manufacturers Record are the following:

West Point Manufacturing Co., West Point, Ga., will erect building, 752 by 132 feet, about half of length to be three stories for spinning and other one-story and basement for weaving; also build cotton warehouse, 450 by 100 feet; install plant to generate steam for heating, slashing and fire protection.

Oklahoma Motor Plow Co., North Muskogee, Okla., was incorporated with capital stock of $100,000 to manufacture motor plows.

Irene Mills, Gaffney, S. C., will erect brick building one-story and basement, 250 by 115 feet; and install machinery for finishing plant.

Hamburger Cotton mills, Columbus, Ga., will add 8,000 spindles to 10,000-spindle mill for production of cotton cloth.

Waldensian Swiss Embroidery Co., Valdese, N. C., was incorporated with capital stock of $125,000 to establish lace mill.

Boone Fork Lumber Co., Elizabethtown, Tenn., was incorporated with capital stock of $50,000, purchased timber land at about $250,000 and will build mills for a monthly capacity of 1,000,000 feet; equipment to cost $25,000.

L. B. Myers, El Reno, Okla., and others are reported interested in establishing ice factory and electric light and power plant at North Pleasanton near Pleasanton, Texas.

Scott Mining Co., Joplin, Mo., was incorporated with capital stock of $80,000 to develop lead and zinc deposits.

International Ditching and Road Machinery Co., Owensboro, Ky., was incorporated with capital stock of $50,000 to manufacture ditching and road machinery.

People's Oil and Cotton Co., Wharton, Texas, was incorporated with capital stock of $50,000.

Columbia Ice and Cold Storage Co., Columbia, Tenn., was incorporated with capital stock of $100,000 to establish ice plant, etc.

SMALL-TOWN SOCIETY.

More of a Bore Than Circles in Large Cities.

(From the Indianapolis News.)

Society is a bore only to those who attempt it collectively. Society taken individually is of sufficient interest to tempt the most indifferent recluse or to excite the most blase debutante. We may insist that society bores us, and that we prefer our books, but our books would bore us, too, if we sat and looked at them as they stood together on the shelf. Every one of us is different and interesting by himself. We are all alike and uninteresting when we are just a part of everybody.

The most suffocating sort of society is small town society—the same people, the same clothes, the same talk. Everybody does everything everybody else does, and, apparently, everybody is like everybody else. In the city there is some relief—there are different sets, different standards, different patterns—but that is as far as the relief extends. One set is as interesting, or uninteresting, as the other.

In the small town, however, as in the city, each individual person is tremendously interesting, more interesting than any of the volumes on your shelves. The strange thing is that we are so little curious about the individuals around us. We are content to meet and mingle with crowds, to discuss things far and near as they have been discussed thousands of times before, but it rarely occurs to any of us to read the interesting things in even one of the individuals about us. The dullest dinner party would be more interesting than a play if the most uninteresting person there revealed even a small part of his real self to the guests.

The first F. A. M. state convention in Oregon will be held in Portland, May 29. The day following the assembly a big race meet is scheduled for the Rose City Speedway.

A 300-mile grand prize team relay is to be held June 17 by the Boston Motorcycle club.

PLANNING MEALS FOR BUSY DAYS

By Mary Jane McClure.

In these days when educated endeavor and success are synonymous in all branches of activity, the progressive housewife realizes the advantage of embracing a carefully thought out working plan as her fundamental basis. With such a foundation, the home manager carries on her work with poise and at a minimum of nervous waste.

One thing is unalterable, even during the busiest season—the family must eat three times a day and then there will probably be the added responsibility of extra help to be fed. What a mountain off one's shoulders to have the meals for the busy cleaning season all planned and practically prepared! No stopping in the midst of superintending an important piece of decorating or cleaning to mentally gasp—"What shall I have for lunch and extra help here, too."

There is also a desire at this time of extra expense for decorating, etc., to economize in other ways. To skimp in cooking and table service is not real saving. True economy lies in the adoption of the modern, progressive method of buying in quantities.

A baked ham is an excellent foundation for a schedule of busy day meals. It will keep several days and is delicious to the last piece. Hams of excellent quality are advertised in this paper and the following recipes will be found delicious and economical.

A case of grape juice on hand during the busy season is a wonderful help and comfort. A glass of it will put new life into yourself and assistants when taken as a refreshing drink and tonic in the midst of a trying forenoon's or afternoon's work. It is also an excellent and healthful substitute for tea or coffee as a beverage at meals. Grape Juice desert will be found one of the quickest to prepare and best deserts.

With the pantry well stocked with an assortment of tinned chicken, meats and soups, now so highly approved by food experts, the native hue of hospitality need never be sicklied o'er with the pale cast of anxiety, even should it be an out-of-town friend that stops in at this busy period on his way through your city. Delicious salads and sandwiches are quickly and easily prepared from tinned meats.

When purchasing tinned goods, buy only a brand of undisputed quality and be sure that every can of meat you buy bears this guarantee: "U. S. Inspected and Passed."

Baked Ham—Cover the ham with cold water and let it simmer long enough to loosen the skin, probably three or four hours. After removing the skin, add one teacup of vinegar, one cup of hot water in which one teaspoon of dry mustard has been dissolved. Bake slowly two hours, basting frequently. Cover the ham with coarse brown sugar, and stick cloves into the fat about an inch apart. Do not baste again until the sugar has formed a thick crust. Cook about an hour.

Ham and Pepper Sandwiches—Chop cold cooked ham and fresh sweet green peppers which have previously been standing in salted water (seeds and ribs removed), season with salt, pepper, a little mustard and moisten with mayonnaise.

Ham Breakfast Dish—Most easily prepared and tempting: Chop the last pieces of ham, both fat and lean, according to the demands of your family, into coarse rough pieces. Put these in a baking pan, resting on a layer of either bread crumbs, boiled rice or macaroni. Then another layer of this, on top of a layer of ham, and so on until the dish is filled to the top. Pour in the pan enough milk to moisten. Add a few more bread crumbs and set in the oven to brown well. The children will want this for breakfast every morning after a first taste.

Grape Juice Dessert—Take one and one-half cups of grape juice and add one cup of water. Let it come to a boil slowly. Then add three-quarters cup of sugar and two tablespoons of cornstarch dissolved in a little cold water, making it the consistency of thin gelatine. Boil about four minutes, then pour into individual dishes and drop sliced oranges or sliced peaches into it, also nut meats.

Chicken Salad—Chop one can of Boned Chicken, one bunch of celery, one sweet green pepper, and add salad dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with cold hard boiled eggs.

Corned Beef Salad—Cut one tin of Corned Beef into thin slices, two hard boiled eggs and one onion. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and pour over all four tablespoons of vinegar. Serve on a platter on a bed of lettuce leaves.

Mexican Salad—To one can of pork and beans, add one chopped chile pimento, one large stalk of celery chopped fine and add, stirring lightly, a few drops at a time, a small quantity of French dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Bean Sandwiches—Butter thin slices of white and whole wheat bread, spread these with horseradish salad, then with a generous layer of canned baked beans which have been well mashed with a fork. Place a slice of buttered bread on top. In the absence of horseradish salad use the horseradish as prepared for the table.

Chicken Sandwiches—Pick apart with a fork the contents of one can of Boned Chicken, and add one-half cup of nuts and one pimento chopped fine. Mix with enough salad dressing to form a paste and spread on thin slices of buttered bread cut in triangles.

Tongue Sandwiches—Cut rye bread in half-inch slices, spread moderately with butter and sparsely with prepared mustard. Between slices of bread place a thin slice of tinned tongue.

N. B.: Other delicious recipes for quickly and easily prepared dishes will be sent to you upon receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope addressed to Mary Jane McClure, care of this paper.

YOUNG MEN WANTED.

Serbian Government Wants Americans to Fight Typhus Fever.

(State Board of Health.)

The State Board of Health has been informed that the Serbian government is anxious to obtain 150 men to assist in the campaign against typhus fever and other diseases in that country. The men desired are either young physicians, sanitary inspectors, fourth year medical students or others specially trained in public health work. The pay is stated to be $175 a month, to be paid by the Serbian government, with expenses to and from Serbia. With the present information, it is uncertain whether the living expenses in Serbia are to be paid by the government or not. The period of employment is likely to be four months or more.

Any young man of ability and character who would like to volunteer for this service should send their names, addresses, ages and professional attainments to the American Public Health Association, 755 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.

LOYAL LEGION IS 50.

The Military Order Was Founded in Philadelphia.

(From Boston Herald.)

The Military Order of the Loyal Legion came to its golden anniversary on April 15. It was founded in Philadelphia on the day when the joy of the nation over the end of the war was turning to grief as the news of the tragedy in Washington was carried over the country. In the city in which it was founded a portion of the surviving members of the Legion will assemble to commemorate the semi-centennial.

It is said that an eminent European soldier declared it a higher honor to wear the rosette of the Legion than to own any other order. The membership was made open to Union officers and their eldest lineal male descendants, and its declared principles were two: A firm belief in God as the preserver of the Union, and allegiance to the United States based upon "paramount respect for the fidelity to the national constitution and laws." A few months ago about one-half the membership of more than 7,000 was made up of men who had served in the war. The call to reunion has gone out to all the commanderies of the country. Many will hear it, but will be unable to respond because of the infirmities of age. Only a small number will answer it, and to them the three days of reunion will be saddened by the memories of the many comrades who have answered another and a final call. The circumstances of its founding and the nature of its organization make it almost a unique society among military orders.

ENGLAND'S FOOD SUPPLY HELPED

Venison, Game Birds and Trout Coming From the Big Estates.

(From the Washington Star.)

The immense Salisbury estate of Hatfield, which has long been one of the show places in England, and which has kept its herd of deer chiefly for ornament, has now imported an agent who is making a specialty of breeding them for venison and supplying as many as can be spared for the London market. To mention some of the specific instances the Earl of Portsmouth in Sussex, who always has been a purveyor of all sorts of farm products, has gone in more than ever for chickens and venison.

On the neighboring estate of Melville Portal, where there are no deer kept, but where there is a famous trout stream, the fish are being more carefully preserved than ever and sent regularly to the market. The same probably is true all over England, because the Smithfield market in London is more stocked with venison and game than ever before, and all country estates where there are game birds, fish and venison are turning their attention more and more to breeding for the markets.

"Me for 'GETS-IT' When I Have Corns"

Simple As Saying It; Never Fails.

It does your heart good to see how easily and quickly any corn comes out when you put "GETS-IT" on! And then when you've gone along for years trying everything, when you've sat up nights wrapping up your toes in bandages, smearing on salves that rub off or swell up the corn, pasting on cotton plasters that make corns pop-eyed, slaughtering your toes with razors, jabbing them with knives and pruning to the quick with scissors—and then you put on 2 drops of "GETS-IT" and see your corn fall right off—why, it just looks like a miracle. Just try it. "GETS-IT" never fails. No pain, no trouble. Use it for any corn, callus, wart or bunion.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

The Only Clouds That Ever Dim The Glory of Fortified Tires

Goodyear tires, like other tires, meet with ill-luck at times. No doubt some men are judging them by some such rare exception.

To them we say this:

Remember that men have tested nearly five million Goodyear tires. The tests have covered 15 years. Long ago those tests placed Goodyears at the top, and they've kept there ever since.

Last year men bought about one Goodyear tire for every car in use. Doesn't that show that men in general have proved these tires the best?

In Five Ways

Goodyear Fortified Tires have five exclusive features. We spend on them millions of dollars to reduce your tire upkeep and trouble.

One combats rim-cuts, one blowouts, one loose treads. One makes the tire secure. And one combats punctures and skidding by our double-thick All-Weather tread.

In those ways, at least, Fortified Tires excel all others.

Lower Prices

Now these super-tires offer still greater value. On Feb. 1st we made another big price reduction. That's the third in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

We do you a kindness when we urge you to try them. They mean to you the utmost in a tire. They mean content. Any dealer will supply you.

LITTLE DOING IN COTTON

Business of Session Was Confined Almost Entirely to Interchange of Call Orders.

New York, May 29.—Business in the cotton market today was confined almost entirely to an interchange of call orders and the movement and the prices did not exceed five points with the close steady at 1 to 2 points net decline. The possibility that the German reply would be received on Sunday tended to restrict operations and there was an entire absence of new commitments. There was some Wall street selling and an easier tone at New Orleans, part of which came from spot houses, so that final prices were off several points from the best of the day.

Opening steady at 2 points decline to 1 point advance the market gradually improved until at one time it was generally 2 to 3 points above the previous night. General interest was light and the news did not offer any incentive to support the market. The weather forecast for the belt was considered favorable. Fall River print cloth sales amounted to only 125,000 pieces for the week ,or half the total a year ago, with curtailment 60,000 pieces against 115,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

While Market Was Quiet It Showed Steady Tone—Slight Loss in Prices.

New Orleans, May 29.—While the cotton market was quiet today it had a steady tone and showed one or two periods of strength, caused by covering of short cotton. The close was 1 to 3 points down.

Around the opening the market was steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points, shorts furnishing the demand. There was little for sale and the advance was widened to from 3 to 5 points. Late in the session the market became unsettled on good crop news and high private condition figures, and the more active months were sent 4to 5 points under yesterday's close but toward the end there was a recovery.

Cotton futures closing: July 9.07; October 9.46; December 9.61; January 9.72; March 9.93.

Spot cotton steady, unchanged. Middling 9.00, sales on the spot 2,250 bales on arrive 165.

WHEAT CLOSED UNSETTLED

Rallied in Latter Part of Yesterday's Session, After Sagging During the First Hours of Trade.

Chicago, May 29. — Some apprehension that the wind of trade in the May delivery of Wheat would be accompanied by nerve-racking conditions of prices, turned out today to have been without much warrant. After sagging the greater part of the time, the market rallied sharply in the last half hour and closed unsettled at ⅛ to 2¼ under last night.

Corn showed a net decline of ⅛@¼ to ⅛; oats finished unchanged to 1 to ¼ down, and provisions varying from a shade off to a rise of 22½.

QUIET RULES IN STOCKS

In the Face of a Double Holiday and Prospect of Germany's Attitude Becoming Known.

New York, May 29.—In the face of a double holiday and strong intimations that Germany's reply to Washington's note in the matter of the Lusitania might be made public before the resumption of business on Tuesday, today's brief session on the stock exchange was altogether a sufferficial affair. Routine news bore on the general trade situation, the leading dry goods interests professing to see further improvement and advices touching upon the steel industry told of greater activity at leading centers of manufacture.

Bonds irregular on moderate trading. Total sales par value aggregated $998,000 U. S. coupons 4s advanced a point on call during the week.

DRY GOODS REVIEW.

Cotton Goods Markets Are Holding Steady But Demand is Light.

New York, May 29.—Cotton goods markets are holding quite steady, although the demand is generally light. The price recessions of the past few weeks in gray and brown goods have been no greater relatively than the decline in cotton. Colorado red goods are being advanced owing to the high cost and great scarcity of dye stuffs. Indigo blue prints and solid black prints have been advanced 1-4c a yard to a basis of 5 1-4c and only stock orders are being taken by the largest factors. Indigo blue denims are held at one cent a yard higher. Bleached cottons are quiet, but very steady and several of the leading brands are well sold ahead.

On wash fabrics the best business is reported in voils. Fine goods mills have taken larger forward orders than for several years past and they are generally well employed. Ready-to-wear manufacturers are using more cotton goods than ever before and are working later in the season on cotton goods than in any previous year. The separate skirt manufacturers are making more cotton skirts than in any previous season.

Prices are somewhat irregular and are generally quoted as follows: Print cloths 28 inch 64x64s 3 1-4c; 64x60s, 3 1-8c 38 1-2 inch 64x64s, 4 -8c; Southern sheetings, standards 6 1-2c; denims 9 ounce indigos 14c; others, 13c; tickings 8 ounce 11 1-2c; prints indigos 5 1-4c; others 5c; ginghams, staples 6 1-4c; dress ginghams 9 1-4c.

Look after home fire prevention. Have buckets filled with water and fire extinguishers handy in case of emergency.

In the matter of J. W. Currie, Bankrupt. In Bankruptcy.

To the creditors of J. W. Currie, of Lumberton, in the County of Robeson and District aforesaid, a Bankrupt.

Notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of May, A. D. 1915, the said J. W. Currie was duly adjudicated bankrupt; and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held at the United States Court Room, Wilmington, in said district, on the 9th day of June, 1915, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business that may properly come before said meeting.

GEO. H. HOWELL,
Referee in Bankruptcy.
Wilmington, N. C., May 29, 1915.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, Department of State. — Certificate of Dissolution.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Southern Ice Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 3 Grace street, in the City of Wilmington, County of New Hanover, State of North Carolina, William E. Worth being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served, has complied with the requirements of Chapter 21, Revisal of 1905, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution:

Now, Therefore, I, J. Bryan Grimes, Secretary of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 6 day of January, 1915, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 6 day of January, A. D. 1915. J. BRYAN GRIMES, my30-m1aw4w Secretary of State.

EXECUTION SALE.

Under and by virtue of an execution, issued to the Sheriff of New Hanover County from the Superior Court of said County in the case of Charles H. Nixon against the Wilmington Ice and Storage Company, the undersigned, Sheriff of said County of New Hanover, has levied on the following described tract of land and on Monday, the 7th day of June, A. D. 1915, at 12 o'clock M., at the Court House Door of said County, in the City of Wilmington, will sell for cash to the highest bidder, the interest of said Wilmington Ice and Storage Company therein, to satisfy said execution, which said tract of land is described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the Southern line of Dock street, at the Northwest corner of a lot of land owned by the Seamen's Friend Society, ninety-one feet west from the western line of Front street, and runs thence West, with said Southern line of Dock street, thirty feet and nine inches, to the Eastern line of a lot formerly belonging to William A. Wright; thence Southwardly with the line of said lot, and parallel with Front street sixty-one feet to the Northern line of Potts alley; thence with said line of said alley Eastwardly thirty feet and nine inches to the Western line of the building of the Seamen's Friend Society; thence with the line of said building Northwardly sixty-one feet to the beginning, being part of Lot 1, in Block No. 138 of the official plan of said City of Wilmington.

This May 9, A. D. 1915.

S. P. COWAN,
Sheriff of New Hanover County.

KINSTON VERY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER NEUSE RIVER PROJECT

Will Lend All Aid Possible Toward Improvement to Goldsboro.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., May 29.—The local business community is greatly enthused over the proposed deepening of the channel of Neuse river from Newbern all the way to Goldsboro. The improvement is the idea of Hon. George E. Hood, the new congressman from the Third district, who, it is supposed, will have the support of Congressman John H. Small, of the First, and other North Carolina representatives in the project.

Navigation of the Neuse from Newbern to Seven Springs via Kinston now is accomplished spasmodically. Fertilizer and other goods are brought here when there is enough water to permit one or two very awkward steamers and powerboats to make the trip. The river traffic is not nearly so large as it was in former years.

Deepening of the channel to five or six feet and widening it in places would allow regular boat service by means of flat-bottom craft from Newbern to Goldsboro, the latter place being about the last point upstream to which commercial navigation is practicable. Kinston would be directly and tremendously benefitted. The saving to local business interests in rates on slow freight would be great. With a reasonable depth and width of the channel small barges could be towed to docks here all the way from the Philadelphia coal yards, and lumber could be shipped in the same manner to the Pennsylvania city, also a construction materials canter.

NORTH CAROLINA CROP PROSPECTS NEVER BRIGHTER

Commissioner of Agriculture Optimistic in Review of Conditions.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N .C. ,May 29.—Commissioner of Agricultrue W. A. Graham,, of the State Department of Agriculture, says that from every section of the State comes report of crop development that are well nigh ideal. Reports as to the wheat crop are of the most promising sort, this crop to be practically made within the next two weeks and with little possibility of any material setback. The oat crop has developed wonderfully and will be one of the finest in the history of the State. Cotton and corn, he says, have developed fine stands and are growing beautifully, although the somewhat unseasonable cold the past few days has retarded the growth of the cotton plants somewhat.

Altogether the commissioner believes that there were never such auspicious crop conditions in North Carolina as at this time. The farmers are, he says, following out more closely than ever the improved methods of cultivation and adopting the most approved methods of cultivation and adopting the most approved methods of farm management with an increased unimity that is most gratifying.

VILLA AFORCES DEFEATED

Lost Five Thousand Men in Attack on Obregon Positions is Report.

El Paso, Texas, May 29.—The Villa army in its assault on the Obregon positions below Leon last week lost more than 5,000 men, according to reliable private advices received here today.

Arrivals from the south stated that 1,000 wounded arrived yesterday at Chihuahua City, while similar numbers were transported to other cities along the Central railroad.

More than 1,000 dead, it was estimated, were left before the Carranza trenches and these bodies together with those of horses threatened an epidemic.

The raiding of an English owned ranch ranch and the killing of a Mexican employes was reported.

Conditions caused by lack of foodstuffs were not reported as critical in Villa territory in north central Mexico as in the isolated portions of the southern district. The railroad between the Villa front and the border was not interrupted for any great length of time during the present campaign and food supplies were moved freely.

PRESIDENT ATTENDS COLLEGE BALL GAME

Passing Ball Park in Automobile, Wilson Spends Several Minutes There.

Washington, May 29. — President Wilson forgot pressing international questions today for a college baseball game.

The President has not been feeling well as usual for the last few days and went on a long automobile ride towards Baltimore today in the hope that air might benefit him. The automobile passed the Maryland Agricultural College, where the local team was playing the nine from St. John's College, Annapolis.

The President ordered his car stopped and remained for several minutes to watch the game. He bowed smilingly to the students who recognized him.

STANDING GALLEY .. .. TALKS ON BIBLE; DROPS DEAD

Lecturer Dies Whispering "Pray to Jesus For Anything You Want."

(From the New York Sun.)

Cornelius D. Weaver, lawyer, 342 Fifty-sixth street, Brooklyn, dropped dead when addressing a meeting of the Mariners' Temple, 142 Hester street, Tuesday afternoon. He had been quoting and lecturing on Biblical texts, before an audience of 40 or 50 persons, mostly boys and young men.

He stopped suddenly and fell from the platform to the floor just in front of the chairs. The boys picked him up and heard him say: "Pray to Jesus for anything you want."

A policeman was called and he summoned an ambulance from the Hudson Street Hospital. Dr. Slater responded, but found that Mr. Weaver had died almost instantly. Heart disease was the cause. The body was taken to the Elizabeth Street police station and later removed to Brooklyn.

Mr. Weaver, who was 75 years old, had his law offices in Jamaica. He came to Brooklyn from Albany four years ago. He had been a police magistrate there. He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughters.

Madrid, (via Paris), May 29.—The government today officially declared the neutrality of Spain in the war between Austro-Hungary and Italy.

COURTS REFUSE TO RESTRAIN ALLIS-CHALMERS COMPANY.

From Making Shrapnel Shells for Sale to Belligerent Powers.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29.—Circuit Judge Turner today dismissed the action of General Samuel Pearson in which he sought to restrain the Allis-Chalmers Company, Otto H. Falk and others from manufacturing shrapnel shells, which, it was alleged, were being supplied by the Allies in the European war.

Pearson who claims to be a Boer war veteran and an owner of property in Germany, instituted proceedings agains Allis-Chalmers Company under the Wisconsin discovery statute asking that the company be ordered to show cause why it should not be prohibited from manufacturing and selling munitions of war to the Allies.

The court held in denying the petition, that in view of the settled principles of international law, that the relief sought by the plaintiff was political rather than legitimate and to grant such relief would be for the court to entertain jurisdiction upon a matter exclusively within the political and executive branch of the Federal government.

The allegation that the war would cease if the shipment of shrapnel shell were stopped is only an expression of opinion according to the court and cannot be made the basis of judicial action.

EAST CAROLINA THE IDEAL YOUNG MAN'S COUNTRY.

Kinston Man Convinced After Trip Through Southwest and West.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Kinston, N. C., May 29.—A. J. Sutton, a local business man, who has just returned from a trip through the greater part of the South and West, says he visited the Louisiana sugar cane fields, the Texas cotton plantations, a California alfalfa ranch and stock ranches at various points, and came back convinced that this is the ideal young man's country.

Alfalfa he saw growing at the rate of eight tons to an acre, with no trouble practically, it is true, but worth only $80 an acre at that. He indicated that he was surprised at that, but that a Westerner learning the profits that are made in some parts of the East Carolina tobacco belt would be amazed.

"In Texas they average about a third of a bale of cotton to the acre, and employ a great deal of Mexican labor," Mr. Sutton says. "I believe the Mexican is really a better worker than our negro farm hand, but the negro has the most sense."

Washington, May 29.—The State Department has inquired through consuls at Vera Cruz and Tampico into the reported killing by Mexicans at Tampico of William Byrd, Jr., an American of Mineral Wells, Texas. A belated letter from Tampico to his father brought the report.
